New Way to Stop Migraine Headaches Fast

You can quickly stop a migraine headache — or even prevent one — simply by breathing into a paper bag.

"This treatment offers new hope for a lot of migraine sufferers," said Dr. Selwyn Dexter of the City of London Migraine Clinic at St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

He used this treatment on 20 patients — and two-thirds were successful in stopping their migraine attacks.

If you try this technique and feel ill or have any discomfort while breathing into the bag, stop immediately, he said. And never use a plastic bag, Dr. Dexter warned.

Consult your doctor before trying this method and have him show you exactly how to do it, added the doctor.

One elderly patient, who had suffered migraines for years but could not find any relief, now carries a paper bag with her wherever she goes, continued Dr. Dexter.

Migraine headaches begin when the brain's blood vessels suddenly narrow, Dr. Dexter noted.

But breathing the same air in a paper bag for 10 to 20 minutes raises the carbon dioxide level in a person's bloodstream which causes the brain's blood vessels to widen. This stops the migraine attack, he said.

The treatment has also proven successful for people who can sense a migraine before it even begins.

By using the paper bag, they can prevent the attack from starting, Dr. Dexter added.

A person suffering from a migraine should sit or lie down and hold the bag to his face.

Breathe deeply and slowly into the bag, taking a little bit of fresh air when the air becomes too stale.

Most patients get relief in 10 to 20 minutes, Dr. Dexter said.

Dr. Otto Appenzeller, who is a professor of neurology at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine, had patients use the rebreathing technique whenever they sensed a migraine attack beginning.

He said: "The rebreathing technique has proven successful in stopping migraine attacks in many of our patients. It's a safe, drug-free method of treating persistent migraine headaches."

$2.3 TRILLION Of Your Taxes — Given Away To Foreigners

Beleaguered American taxpayers have been bled for a mind-boggling $2.3 trillion over the past 36 years — and it's all gone to other nations as foreign aid.

The staggering sum is more than twice the U.S. national debt and just short of the total value of all the goods and services produced by our nation in an entire year!

"This is an astounding figure," roared Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.), who spent months digging through official documents before coming up with the incredible total.

Helms said it left him "dumb-founded."

He was so stunned, he had the figure rechecked ... but unfortunately, it was correct.

On paper, he said, the cost of foreign aid since the program began in 1946 has been $286,467,000,000.

But Helms says even that eye-popping figure is dwarfed by the actual cost.

Uncle Sam has had to borrow much of the money before he could give it away, so with interest the total skyrockets to an awesome $2,304,257,900,000!

Helms blames the U.S. Congress for having allowed the price tags on federal programs, such as foreign aid, to balloon uncontrollably.

"When Congress approves enormous deficits and when the interest on the borrowed money is compounded year after year, the real cost of federal programs soars into the stratosphere," he noted.

Of the 137 nations that have received foreign aid, South Vietnam got the most — $23.3 billion. Next on the list is Israel with $18.4 billion, followed by South Korea with $13.6 billion, India with $10.2 billion and Great Britain with $8.7 billion, said Helms. Incredibly, even Russia got $186 million, he noted.

Rep. Larry McDonald (D-Ga.) told The ENQUIRER: "It's time we called a halt to the folly of foreign aid. In fact, it's long past time."

Many Still Don't Believe We Landed on the Moon

Incredibly, more than 13 percent of Americans polled by The ENQUIRER still don't believe the U.S. really landed astronauts on the moon!

The ENQUIRER asked a random sampling of 200 people in four major cities: "Do you believe that America really landed a man on the moon?" And 27 people — 13½ percent — said "No."

"C'mon — how could we land on the moon? It's so far away!" snorted Mari Esterhasi of New York City.

A shopper in a Houston mall was even more emphatic: "No, we definitely did not send anyone to the moon. I don't think they (the astronauts) ever left NASA. It was all just special effects. That thing was just an attempt to boost everybody's morale."

The ENQUIRER surveyed 50 people each in New York, Houston, Chicago and San Diego.

Surprisingly, the largest number of skeptics were in Houston, home of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center which directed the 1969 Apollo moon landing and five subsequent landings.

"No, I don't believe we ever went to the moon because I think that we were having a gas shortage around then," explained Damon McCollum of Houston.

In Chicago, six out of 50 people (12 percent) thought the historic event had been faked. Said Mike Suty, a former movie electrician: "I think they made a movie. We've got terrain in Algeria and Tunisia like the stuff they said was the moon."

In San Diego, eight out of 50 people (16 percent) did not believe the moon landing took place.

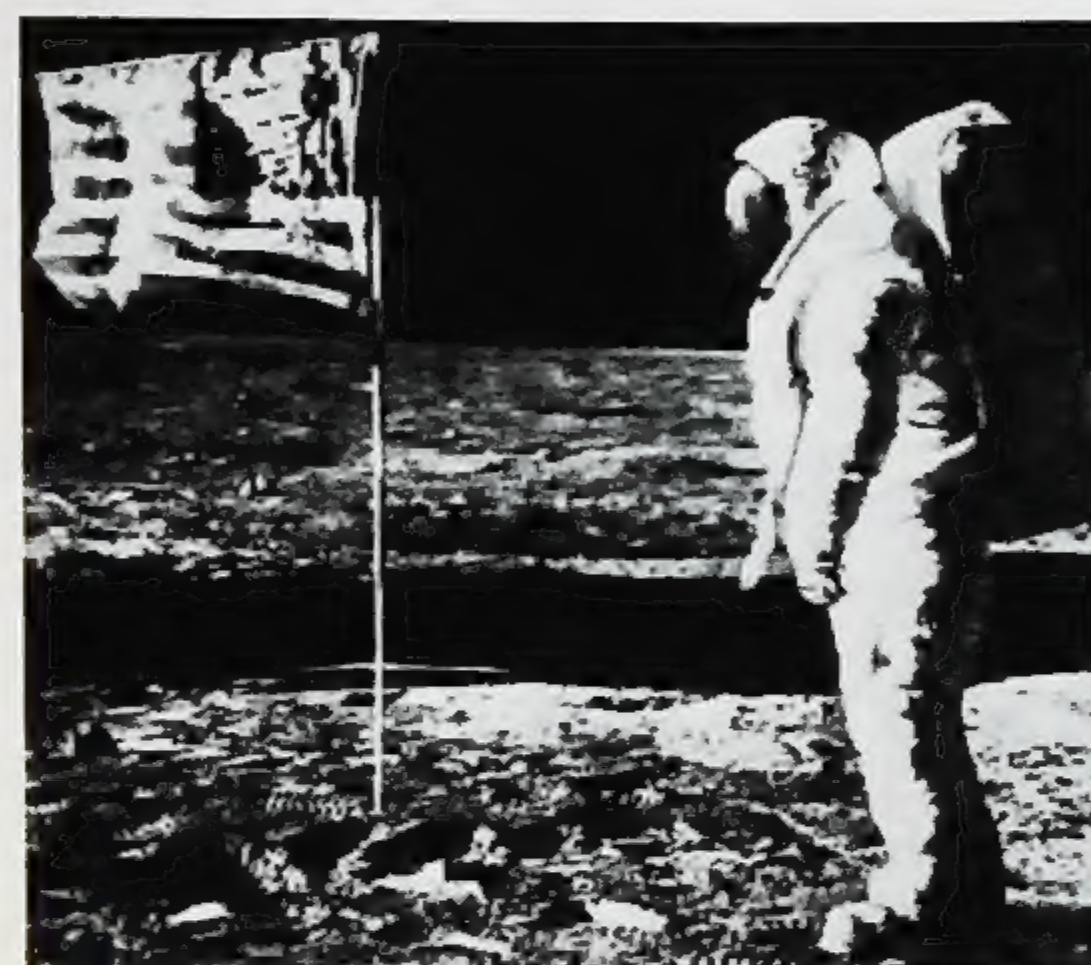

In New York, however, just two out of 50 people (4 percent) expressed doubt.

Those who believed that the landing happened gave various reasons for their belief. One said he had personally watched the landing on his own telescope. Others noted that there were just too many people involved for it to be a fraud.

Noted Louis Draper of Houston: "Faking it would have taken too much brainpower."

"And, it's obvious that our government isn't capable of that," he added.

Psychics' Startling New Predictions About Top TV Stars

Tom Selleck will become a hero in real life ... Johnny Carson will be injured by a baby gorilla ... Farrah Fawcett and Lee Majors will remarry ... TV soap star Tony Geary will become a Gospel preacher ... and another American actress will become a princess in Monaco.

These are just a few of the startling events that face America's top TV stars in the next year, say top ENQUIRER psychics.

Fredrick Davies, a New York psychic astrologer often consulted by many celebrities, made these startling predictions:

Lydia Cornell, star of "Too Close for Comfort," will vacation in Monaco, fall in love with Princess Grace's handsome son Prince Albert, and they'll have a whirlwind courtship.

"They will marry next summer and another American actress will become a princess in Monaco," Davies said. Scott Baio of "Joanie Loves Chachi" will have several flings with older movie and TV stars, and Hollywood will begin calling him "the new Valentino."

He will be selected as the romantic lead in a new movie that will skyrocket his acting career.

Alan Alda will spearhead a new and successful drive to pass a new Equal Rights Amendment.

Denver psychic Lou Wright, who uncannily forecast the assassination attempt on Pope John Paul II, predicted: "General Hospital" soap star Tony Geary will drop from public view for six months — then reappear as a "tent evangelist."

A baby gorilla brought on the "Tonight Show" will grab Johnny Carson's nose, badly injuring it.

Farrah Fawcett, who has agreed to do a guest shot on "The Fall Guy," will have such a good time working with the show's star — her ex-husband Lee Majors — that they will decide to remarry.

Tom Selleck of "Magnum, P.I." will become a real-life hero. While filming a chase scene in Hawaii, he'll come across a car accident and pull a driver from a burning car, saving his life.

Shawn Robbins, who had accurately foretold the 1974 air disaster near Paris that killed 345 people, made these predictions:

Mary Tyler Moore will try to become a regular on "The Love Boat." But her former costar Gavin MacLeod, captain of the ship, will nix the idea because he doesn't want to be constantly reminded of his old role as Murray on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"Dallas" star Larry Hagman will try to ban smokers from the set, touching off severe union problems.

Catherine Bach of "The Dukes of Hazzard" will discover a career as a dancer.

EXCLUSIVE Sailor Tells of Record Ocean Crossing in Smallest Boat Ever

In an incredible 51-day, 3,000-mile journey, adventurer Tom McClean of Scotland crossed the stormy and treacherous North Atlantic in what amounted to no more than a large matchbox — a boat less than 10 feet long that he built himself. The 39-year-old businessman, who completed his voyage August 12, now holds the record for navigating the Atlantic in the smallest boat. He already held another record, set in 1969, when he became the first person ever to row west to east across the Atlantic. Here, exclusively for ENQUIRER readers, is McClean's gripping account of his latest adventure.

I Spent 51 Days Alone in This Boat

By TOM MCCLEAN

I screamed in terror. My tiny wooden boat was being sucked right into the huge churning propeller of a massive oil tanker.

The blades were like a giant meat grinder waiting to chop me and my boat to shreds — and there was absolutely nothing I could do.

"God, please help me — help me!" I cried as the wash from the propeller slammed my boat almost over on its side and pulled it closer to those terrible whirling blades.

I imagined my wife's look of horror when told of the gruesome way I had died. I sobbed in my despair, and my body shook with rage at my utter helplessness.

But suddenly my prayers were answered. The wake released its hold on my boat and I floated free. Still trembling, I breathed: "Thank You, God, for saving me!"

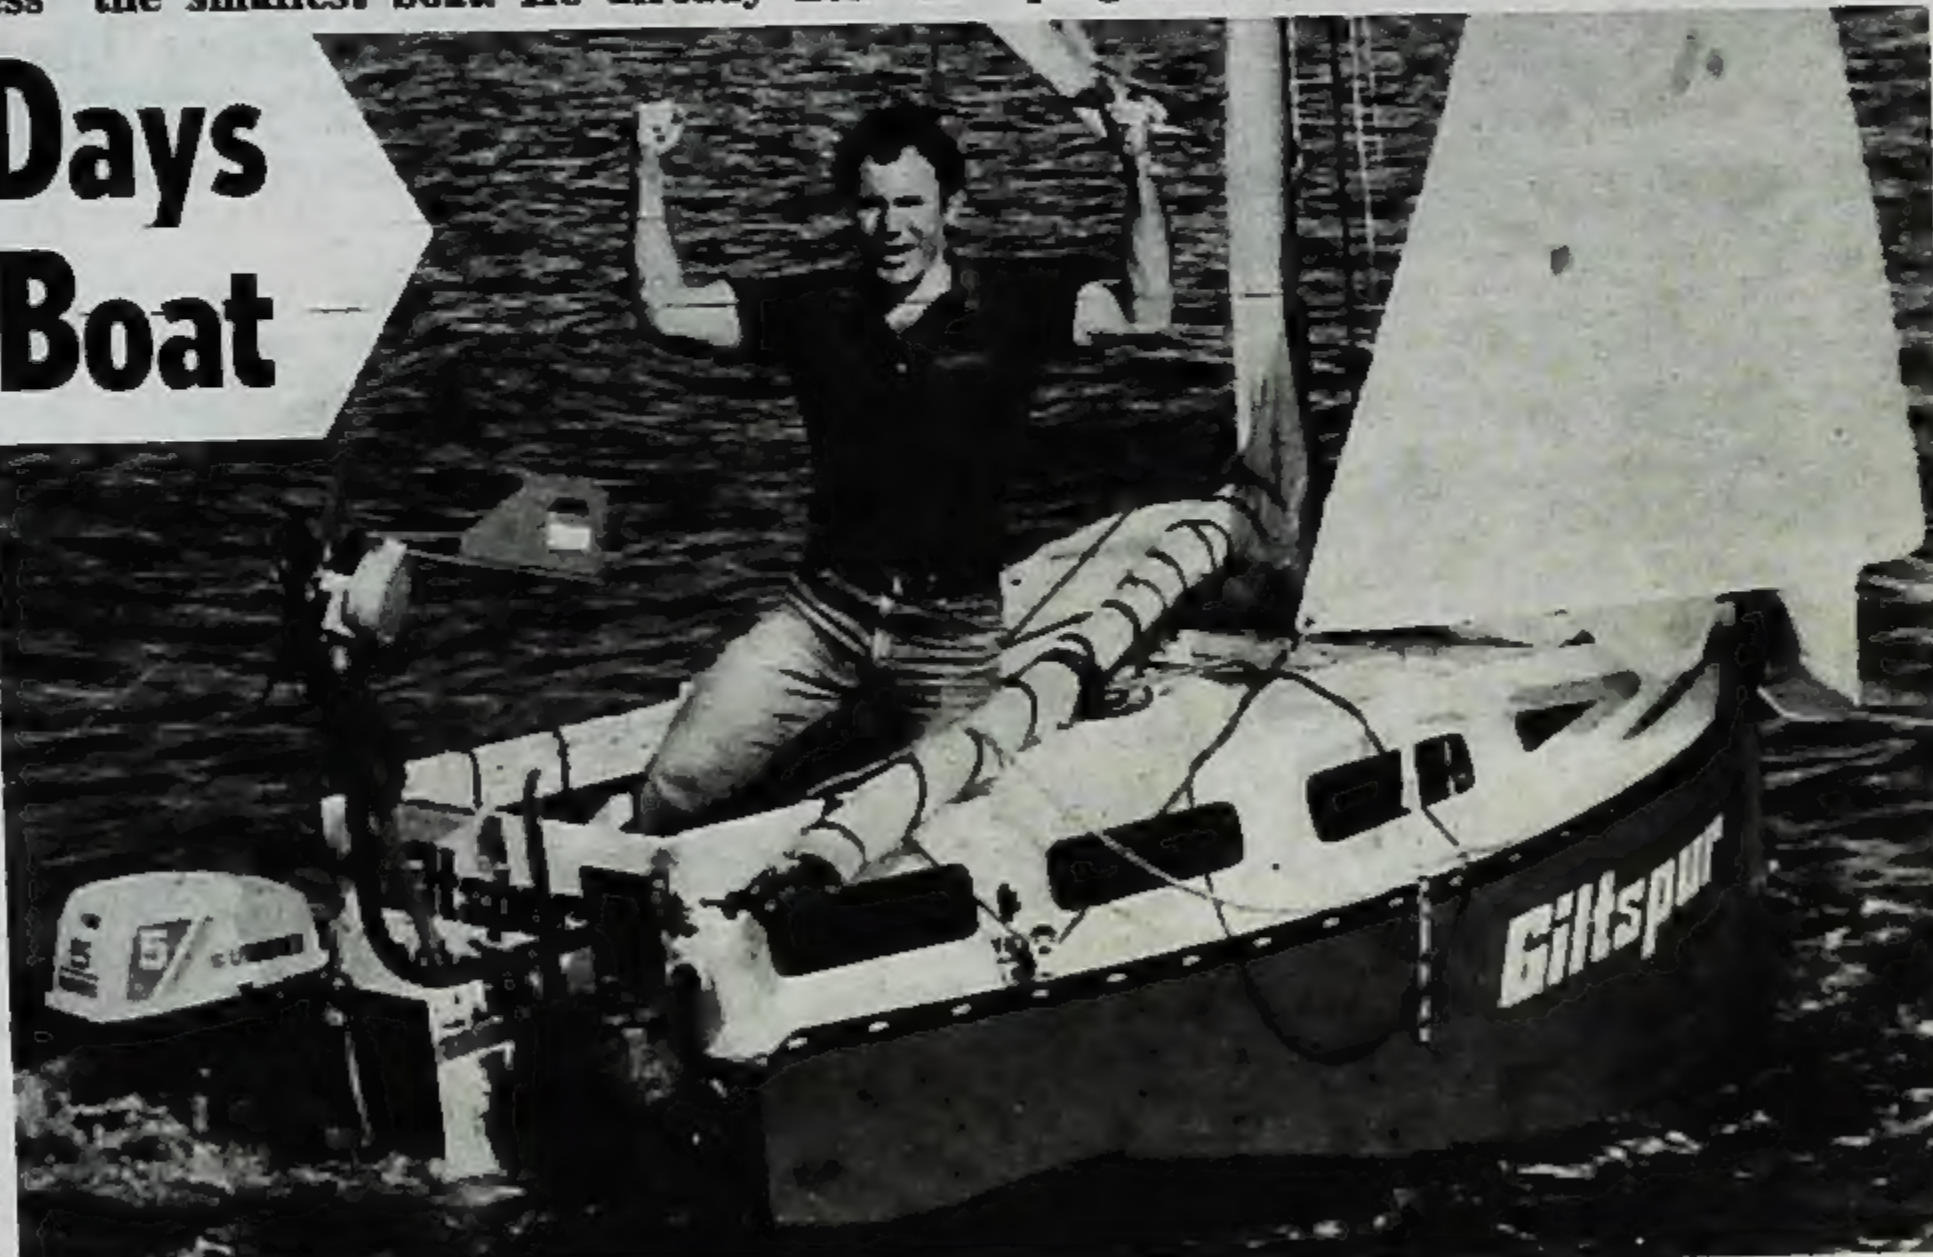

That was just one of the many horrors I faced during my 51-day journey across the vast North Atlantic in a 9-foot 9-inch boat — the smallest boat in history to make the hazardous crossing.

It was a record I'd wanted for a long time. I wanted it so I could tell my children and grandchildren about my epic journey.

I'd set out from St. John's, Newfoundland, Canada, last June 22 in my wooden boat, Giltspur. I'd built it myself. It had sails plus a small outboard motor, and the cabin belowdecks was crammed with food and other supplies. I also had a two-way radio down there, but it had a range of only 10 to 12 miles.

I knew I would have to look death in the eye many times on my crossing... and sure enough, within less than 24 hours I sailed into danger.

I shuddered as I spotted icebergs ahead. Their sheer enormity took my breath away. I knew that if the stiff, unpredictable winds blew me into one of them, my boat would be smashed to bits.

Battered by the Sea, My Body Shrieked in Pain

My heart was pounding as I battled desperately to navigate through the field of icebergs. I gazed up at the sheer walls of ice on either side of me and felt like I was in a gigantic vise. My mind played tricks on me — it seemed at times as though the icebergs were drifting together and would crush me.

But finally I was clear of them. I whispered a prayer: "Thank You, dear Lord, for getting me through. And please guide me safely on the rest of my long journey."

After just two days at sea I was aching all over and utterly miserable. One of my biggest problems was the fact that I couldn't lie down and stretch out in my boat.

Most of the boat space was taken up by food and equipment, so at the start of my voyage the only room for me was a space three feet wide and three feet long. I had to try sleeping sitting up with my knees against my chest.

Later on, as I used up supplies, I was able to stretch out my legs — but I still couldn't completely lie down. I dozed fitfully for only minutes at a time, and my cramped muscles shrieked constantly in pain.

The weather was blustery and freezing outside. Inside the cabin, with the hatch over my head closed to keep out the waves, I nearly suffocated. When I opened the hatch periodically to get some air, torrents of water poured in and soaked me to the bone. I sat shivering, teeth chattering furiously.

Sores caused by the saltwater erupted on my face and hands, and plagued me throughout my journey. Every time salt spray hit them, I had to grit my teeth from the pain.

As I lay in the pitch blackness of the cabin, an overwhelming loneliness swept over me. My mind drifted to my wife Jill. "What's she doing at this very moment?" I wondered. "Is she thinking of me?"

I longed to hold her, to feel her warmth and listen to her laughter.

But I wondered if I would ever see her again. On the third day I sailed right into a furious storm. My boat bobbed out of control on the swirling seas. I felt like I was inside a bottle spinning round and round and round, never stopping. My stomach churned and I was always on the verge of vomiting. I was sick, in misery and desperately lonely for my wife and family.

The storm lasted five days. When it ended, I found I'd been blown way off course.

Sick at heart, I went belowdecks and took out a letter my darling Jill had given me when I left our Scotland home. I read her words of love over and over.

Bitter 'Laverne & Shirley' Star:

They Dumped Me Because I'm Pregnant

Bitterly lashing out at her TV bosses, "Laverne & Shirley" star Cindy Williams charges she's been callously dumped from the hit show because she's pregnant.

In an emotional, exclusive ENQUIRER interview at her luxurious Beverly Hills home, Cindy, 34 and five months pregnant, tenderly placed her hand on her round tummy.

"This baby means everything to me!" she declared. "It's a dream coming true, something I've wished for all my life."

"I'm shattered that the happiest event of my life has been turned into a cruel and heartless reason for forcing me off the show!"

Cindy says her "Laverne & Shirley" producers promised she'd have to work just eight or nine hours a day during her pregnancy — but then suddenly insisted she stay on the set for up to 14 grueling hours.

Now Cindy's staying away from the set to protect her baby's health — and the execs won't give in on their demand.

"I'm ready, willing and able to return to work," said Cindy. "My pregnancy had been written into the show. Everyone said they were pleased with the potential it gave us for new material, to make the show stronger. I don't understand what's happening."

Cindy's pretty blue eyes misted with tears as she recalled the bizarre series of events that began when she told series executives she was expecting her first baby.

"During the first week of

shooting, in early July, we had put in a 13-hour day to complete the episode. I was exhausted, but the studio assured me that would be the last time I'd have to work such an exhausting schedule. They even apologized.

"I then made an agreement with the studio that I would work eight hours per day on rehearsals and nine hours a day when we were shooting."

"But I noticed a change as we prepared for the next episode. There was a coldness on the set. Some people seemed to avoid me."

"Then, on July 13 we shot the second episode. It was as if we never had an agreement. The hours rolled by. When we were finally done, it was 9 p.m. — 14 hours after we began.

"I'd spent 14 hours under hot studio lights, standing on the hard concrete floor. I was exhausted. My back was aching so badly I couldn't stand. My feet and ankles were swelling. I was drained, physically and emotionally."

"Suddenly, 'motherhood' flashed in neon over my head. I knew this wasn't just detrimental for me — but also bad for my baby!"

"That very night I telephoned my attorney. I asked him to contact the studio and make sure they were going to honor our agreement the next week."

"The next morning I went to see my obstetrician. He said I was close to exhausting myself because of the strenuous schedule."

"He made me go home and rest in bed — and sent a letter to the studio telling them how the 14-hour schedule affected me. He added I was capable of working a normal eight- or nine-hour day."

"My husband, Bill Hudson, told me my attorney was flying back to discuss our agreement with the studio. I was confused. I'd thought we'd settled the issue about how long I could work.

"But I was still optimistic that everything would be settled."

"It never entered my mind that they would dump me!"

"We should have started shooting our next episode around July 21 — and that's the day the bombshell fell!"

"I was told that the studio had decided they were not going to continue our agreement. They said I could work on the series, but with no special concessions regarding work I'd be expected to work until shooting was completed, regardless of how long it took — and what dangers I was putting my child in."

"I couldn't believe it. Why were they doing this to me?"

"I began crying. I couldn't go back to work under those conditions. I wasn't going to be Shirley Feeney anymore."

"As I sat crying, my hands found their way to my stomach. I felt my unborn child. I realized that this new life was more important than a character on a TV show."

"It wasn't fair that I had been dumped from the show

— but I had a child to devote my life to."

"I learned the scriptwriters handling my character were being pulled off."

"Stories began leaking to the press suggesting I was frail and sickly because of the baby. They even said they'd had to provide a hospital bed on the set for me. That's not true. The bed was a prop from scenes we shot when Shirley gets married in a hospital room."

"They made it seem they'd ordered it for me!"

"As I lay in bed one night, I realized tears were rolling down my cheeks. I realized no one from the show — except for my costar, Penny Marshall — had called."

"Maybe they're afraid to call. But it hurts to be cut off from those you have loved."

"That's why I want the millions of viewers to know I haven't abandoned them. I'd go back to work tomorrow, but I have to be sure there would be no risk to my child."

"I want all the viewers to know I'm willing to work a full eight- or nine-hour day — but I cannot work to exhaustion."

"Any woman who's had a baby can understand that."

An executive for Paramount Pictures, which produces "Laverne & Shirley," said, "Cindy is welcome back anytime provided she's able to complete the required work on each episode, and keep up with the deadlines."

But Cindy charged, "They have made my pregnancy an excuse for getting rid of me. That's why I'm suing Paramount and the producers for $20 million, for compensation and to make sure something like this never happens again."

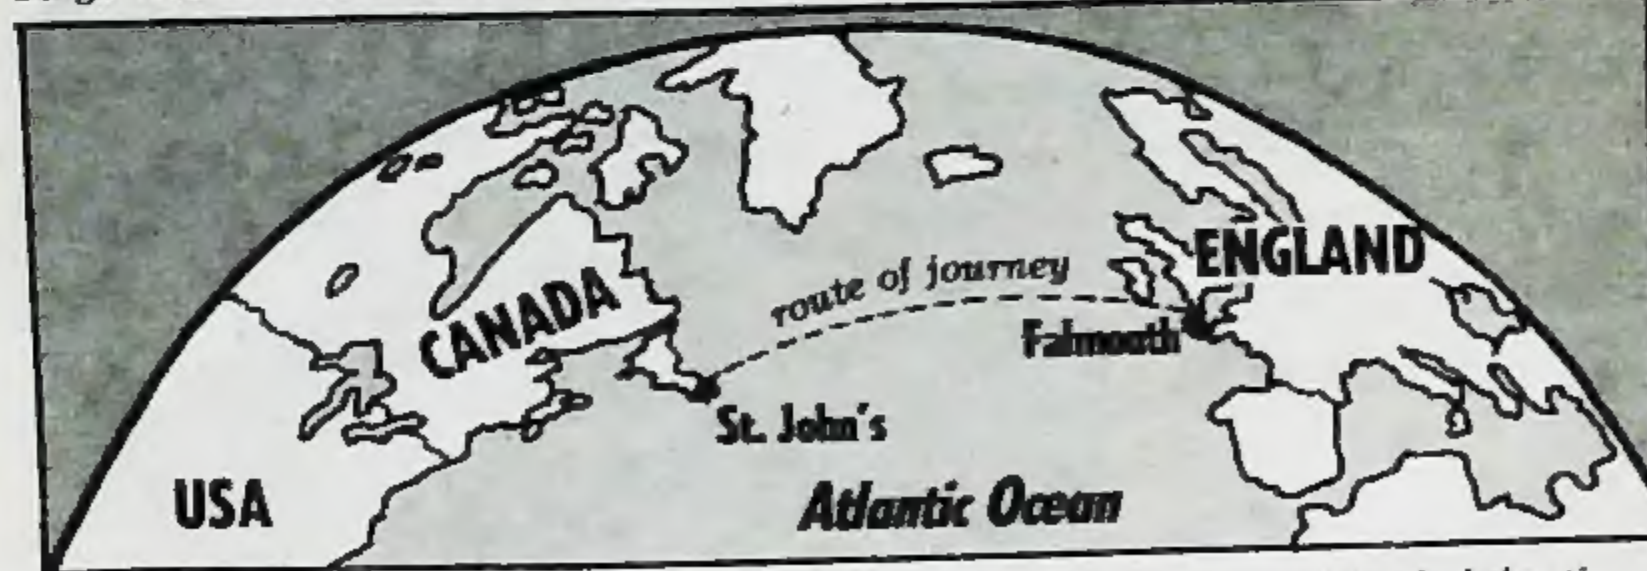

"Until they did this to me, it was the happiest time of my life. I can't believe how things have changed."

"But I have to take care of myself — and my child!"

Angry Women Declare WAR Against Rapists and Bullies

By PAUL BANNISTER

An angry band of feminists are fighting back against unpunished rapists and women beaters — by posting lists naming the bullies in public places.

They say they're mad as hell because men who beat or rape women are being let off by the courts with a slap on the wrist or no punishment at all.

Public Blacklist Names Men Who Assault Females

"Our purpose is to inform women who these men are," declared Jan Shurchild, a member of the Santa Cruz (Calif.) Women Against Rape (WAR).

"We want women to know about them so they can choose whether or not they want to be around these men," she told The ENQUIRER.

Gail Groves, another member of the militant women's group, added: "Men rarely show up on the list again once we've named them. It's definitely effective."

In the past seven years, 250 men's names have appeared on the blacklist. Every two to three months another list is published with an average of six new names.

The names are supplied by women who claim the men assaulted them.

Some 500 copies, printed on cheap colored paper, are tacked up on telephone poles, in bus stop shelters, laundries, rest rooms and on women's club bulletin boards in Santa Cruz and the immediate area.

On a typical list posted recently, one man is accused of having a violent temper and of beating women.

The blacklist reveals his name, address, what he looks like, his place of employment, where he goes to school, and the make and model of his car.

The men who make the list are not usually warned in advance. Most of them have not been convicted of the charges leveled against them by the 100-member WAR group. Although this leaves the women wide-open to a lawsuit, they've never been sued in seven years.

"We're not afraid of legal action," Shurchild said.

Robert Frost had wanted only to escape from his burning apartment building. But when he heard a baby's cry, the 81-year-old invalid bravely rolled his wheelchair right into the raging inferno — and rescued the child.

In his desperate battle to save the baby, he suffered serious burns and was hospitalized.

The horror began when Frost heard explosions coming from the apartment next to his last June 14. He wheeled into the hallway to investigate and was met by flames spewing out of the other apartment's open door.

Frost, who is crippled by a broken hip and arthritis, hurried back into his apartment to grab some personal things.

"There was only one thought in my mind — to get out of that building before I burned to death," recalled the Eagle-ville, Tenn., man.

"There were licks of flame everywhere. I didn't know if I'd be able to even make it down the hall without getting burned. But then I heard that baby cry, and so I knew I had to try and save it."

Frost then wheeled through the thick smoke and flames blazing in the open door of the apartment where 8-month-old Ranny Ray lay crying. The baby's mother, Mrs. Paula Grimes, was in front of the house, say neighbors.

"I groped around in the smoke and flames until I felt the baby."

"I grabbed him and then pressed him into my lap. Then I headed for the door."

But he could not push his wheelchair across the threshold! Incredibly, Frost then rolled back toward the flames. He turned the wheelchair around with his back toward the exit. Then, using all his strength, he turned the wheels furiously to gain the momentum he needed to get over the threshold.

Miraculously, the wheelchair bounded onto the front porch.

"Some men helped carry me and the little baby away," Frost recalled.

Both Frost and the infant were hospitalized with second- and third-degree burns. But they're recovering from their injuries.

The fire was caused by faulty wiring in a stove, firemen said. And local Fire Chief Randall Lamb declared: "Robert Frost is a real hero."

Landmark smoker study confirms that the majority of higher tar smokers who have switched to MERIT have one thing in common — Praise for MERIT taste.

Taste Debate Ends.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Taste Verdict: MERIT.

Further, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared with higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to — or better than — leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking — is MERIT.

Nothing to Get Rattled About

Snakes alive! And they're deadly ones at that. In this incredible demonstration of daring, Larry Webb lies in an unzipped sleeping bag while 50 poisonous rattlesnakes are shoveled in the bag with him. Then it is zipped closed... and Webb proceeds to wriggle out, slowly and carefully. The stunt is part of a demonstration staged by Webb and other members of the Heart of Texas Snake Handlers club to teach people how to react to snakes — without getting "rattled."

THE WORLD'S #1 TOTAL FITNESS EXPERT JACK LALANNE'S NEW GLUCOMANNAN CAPSULES ARE THE ANSWER TO YOUR WEIGHT LOSS PRAYERS --

Jack LaLanne is recognized as the world's #1 total fitness expert. He's famous for helping people keep in shape and maintain health through diet and exercise. And now he introduces SUPER-MANNAN® to America. Super-Mannan® is a revolutionary new diet aid that helps you lose weight naturally and safely, and it also helps you keep your blood cholesterol level low.

by Jack LaLanne

I want you to lose weight naturally and safely — so I hope you'll read this message carefully.

My name is Jack LaLanne. You may have heard of me — and the chances are good that at one time or another you've even seen my nationally syndicated TV shows on physical fitness.

I've been helping people shed unwanted, unhealthy pounds for most of my professional career, by advising a carefully controlled diet combined with a sound program of exercise.

I WILL NOT RECOMMEND UNSAFE, WORTHLESS DIET PILLS

Because of my reputation as the world's #1 total fitness expert, I am continually searching for those products which meet my standards for natural and safe weight control.

So-called "diet pills" for the most part are completely worthless. And if you've tried any of them, then you know from experience what I mean. They won't accomplish what they claim they will. And many of them actually contain dangerous drugs that can do great harm to the body.

My Super-Mannan® is a natural aid for suppressing the appetite now available in the United States.

Other weight loss methods are based on limiting intake of calories and/or counting intake of calories. This may cause undernourishment and other deficiencies in the body. However, Super-Mannan® may aid in absorbing caloric fats from the food you eat, and by giving one a "feeling of fullness," and may help prevent one from eating excessively. Therefore, you can eat and still lose weight.

I'll admit that I was a little skeptical when I first heard of glucomannan capsules. Glucomannan, a 100% natural high dietary fiber, is the scientific name for Super-Mannan®. However, I decided to check this product out carefully. They're made from the rare Konjac root (found only in a few limited areas of Japan) — and I know that people in Japan and the Orient aren't plagued by the problem of overweight, as are far too many Americans. I studied the evidence. I read what many distinguished medical Doctors and authorities said about glucomannan capsules. And only then did I decide to help make glucomannan capsules available in America. Every unit of Super-Mannan® is of the very highest quality. Completely natural. And in the most potent form possible for maximum weight-loss effectiveness. Remember, your health is your wealth, so invest in yourself.

Jack LaLanne

SUPER-MANNAN® FACTS

• With my Super-Mannan® program you may lose as much weight as you wish — perhaps as much as 20 pounds or more every month!

• Super-Mannan® capsules let you lose this weight without starvation diets or grueling exercise. That's right! All you do is take Super-Mannan® capsules before meals with water. It gives you a natural feeling of fullness before you even pick up your fork! You may not really have to drastically change your menu.

• Super-Mannan® capsules give you super-fast results from dynamic two-way action. FIRST — they control your appetite automatically (you don't need will-power!). SECOND — they help the body to melt those unsightly pounds of excess fatty tissue that your body already accumulated!

• New Super-Mannan® capsules do all this naturally! No dangerous drugs, chemicals, coloring agents or preservatives. Super-Mannan® capsules are a natural food derived from the edible Konjac root.

- Lose 10 to 20 lbs. and more!
- Lower your cholesterol!
- 100% safe! No drugs!

Jack LaLanne says — "I'm so confident Super-Mannan® will work for you that I'll rush you a supply without financial risk or any financial obligation on your part."

New Super-Mannan® capsules actually may help flush out cholesterol from your body. Your blood cholesterol level may actually drop. And I'm sure you know that many leading heart specialists say there is a direct relation between high blood cholesterol and heart disease!

New Super-Mannan® capsules also help flush out many unhealthy elements in our diets such as chemical additives, coloring agents and preservatives before they can be absorbed by your body!

I also feel that it's important for you to know a little about the kind of glowing praise that Super-Mannan® has received from some very prominent medical authorities.

The Director of a prestigious Japanese research laboratory said the following:

"I've been using glucomannan for 13 years with my patients. I've taken it myself. It's lowered my high blood cholesterol level to normal. I still take it whenever I eat meat in order to facilitate digestion, and hold down blood sugar and fat."

A prominent member of the Japan Medical Association said:

"Glucomannan is a wonderfully effective, safe and easy way to lose weight. It has the ability to absorb much of the fat, protein and carbohydrates. It is especially effective in absorbing cholesterol and cleaning it out."

And a well-known cardiovascular surgeon and member of the Japan Cardiovascular Association said:

"Glucomannan is safe, simple, and an effective way to lose weight. Since Europeans and Americans are much more prone to high cholesterol than Japanese, since they eat more animal fat, glucomannan is not only a breakthrough as a weight-loss aid but as an aid to lowering cholesterol."

MY PERSONAL INVITATION — PLUS A FREE GIFT FOR YOU

I'm excited about my new Super-Mannan® because it's the first really effective weight-loss program I've ever come across.

And, of course, I still believe in general physical fitness. So, with your shipment of new Super-Mannan®, I'm going to include — absolutely free — a comprehensive guide I wrote that tells you about my special secret exercises for keeping your figure trim and attractive. The exercises can easily be performed in your home, and they require no special equipment.

My new Super-Mannan® capsules

As always, consult your doctor before dieting.

FAMILY REUNION: Zsa Zsa in the early '70s with hubby No. 2, Conrad Hilton, and daughter Francesca.

TRUE ROMANCE: Zsa Zsa on 1954 flight with lover Porfirio Rubirosa.

Zsa Zsa: How I Rate the Men I've Loved

Seven-times married Zsa Zsa Gabor says actor George Sanders was the biggest love of her life — but of all of the men she's had, Latin playboy Porfirio Rubirosa was the best lover.

The beautiful actress talked about some of her ex-husbands and former lovers in an amazingly candid interview at her Los Angeles home.

"I was married for the first time when I was 15 to a Turk. I was very young and confused and don't remember much about it. So I don't really count that as a real marriage. It never meant anything to me."

Zsa Zsa is better able to remember hubby number two — hotel tycoon Conrad Hilton — because "I had a lovely daughter with him, which is something to remember from a marriage."

She insists she married Hilton not because of his millions — she simply liked him.

"I had to like him to marry him because I am not the sort of girl who can sleep with a man if I close my eyes and grit my teeth and think of something else."

Recalling the first time she met Sanders, hubby number three, Zsa Zsa said, "I went straight up to him and told him I was mad about him. He was very immodest and replied, 'How well I can understand your feelings.'"

After they married, Sanders was making a movie in England when news of a blossoming love affair between Zsa Zsa and Rubirosa reached him from the States.

Jealous, Sanders hired a team of private detectives to follow his wife. Dressed as window cleaners, they climbed to the eighth-floor suite of a Manhattan hotel, then hung on grimly to photograph the couple in their love nest.

"It was a mean, underhanded trick. I didn't expect an English gentleman to behave like that. But it was a lesson. I never let it happen again," said Zsa Zsa.

Sanders, who died in 1972, was the biggest love of her life. However, Zsa Zsa adds, Rubirosa was the one who really captivated her. "He was such a fine lover. Incomparable! He was very experienced and very tender — everything a woman could desire in a man."

Hubby number six, Barbie Doll inventor Jack Ryan, had no taste, said Zsa Zsa. "For instance, he gave me two stone lions for the front of my house, with little machines inside that made them roar and frighten people who went by."

Zsa Zsa, who was recently divorced from hubby number seven, Michael O'Hara, revealed she dated John F. Kennedy when he was a Senator. "Jackie hates me to this day. She never forgave me," Zsa Zsa said.

NO TASTE, declares Zsa Zsa about her hubby No. 6, Jack Ryan.

ANCIENT HISTORY: Zsa Zsa in a 1939 photo with her first hubby, whom she refers to only as "a Turk." His name was Burhan Belge.

51 Days Alone at Sea

"I won't give up — I won't!" I vowed, gritting my teeth.

About a quarter of the way across the Atlantic, a violent wind carried away one of my two sails. Then a vicious storm blew up, far bigger than the first one. Monstrous waves battered my boat.

"Is my journey going to end in disaster so soon?" I wondered bleakly as I sat in the darkness belowdecks, listening to the winds shriek outside. In my log, by flashlight, I wrote: "Grim, grim, grim."

The storm raged on and on. The wind howled relentlessly. The fan on my wind vane, which drove my generator, was shrieking.

I was soaked, cold and numb from being thrown around. In despair I scribbled in my log: "God must be near..."

Only thoughts of my family and friends kept me sane. I daydreamed of relaxing in my backyard garden with Jill and our two sons. I pictured them smiling and talking to me. And I also dreamed of stretching out in a soft, warm, dry bed.

After the storm subsided, the sea turned to a sheet of glass. As I waited for wind, I was horrified to see a sinister black fin break the surface and move toward me. It was a shark!

"My God — it's bigger than my boat!" I gasped. I stood frozen, praying for it to go away. For several tense minutes it circled the boat... then to my great relief it vanished.

Because of the short range of my radio, I went for days without ever talking to anyone. To pass the time, I read and reread a batch of letters I'd brought along.

One day I sat on the side of the boat reading a letter I'd been given by a local schoolboy. It said, "Dear Mr. McClean: What would you do if a giant octopus comes up from the sea and kills you, or a big black whale or some other beastie comes and gobbles you up?"

At that moment, only 20 yards from my boat, a whale rose to the surface — and vanished again. Then more whales appeared around me. I sat clutching the boy's letter, gripped by horror. I knew that if a whale came up under my boat, I'd be cap-sized.

Then I looked down — and saw a whale right under my boat. "Please don't surface!" I silently pleaded.

My heart pounded in my chest as the monster moved slowly under me. I could hardly breathe. I knew he was big enough to swallow both me and my craft.

Then, to my great relief, he moved away from me. A few minutes later I saw the whales surfacing in the distance, blowing sprays of water into the air. My breath came out in a huge "whoosh!" and slowly my body stopped trembling.

Right after that near-disaster I spotted the oil tanker ahead. I radioed it, and my heart leaped with joy at hearing another human voice — the first I'd heard in weeks. The skipper asked me to come alongside — and that's when I was nearly chopped to shreds by the tanker's big propeller.

One day I checked my position with navigational equipment I had brought along, and was thrilled to discover I was just 200 miles from Ireland. But that night a fierce storm came up and blew me 100 miles backward.

For two terrifying days fierce winds and waves battered the boat, slamming me around inside until I was covered with bruises. I did not dare come on deck because I knew I'd be swept away by the raging seas.

"Can the boat hold out?" I thought fearfully. "Did I build it right?" The boat was leaning so much that the mast often was underwater.

I couldn't eat without spilling my food, so I sipped only orange juice. My stomach turned, and I poured sweat in my sickness. I'd smacked my head against the cabin walls more than a hundred times, and my head pounded like somebody was whacking it with a sledgehammer.

I ached so much that I could barely lift the orange juice container up to drink. I lay in my cramped cabin and wondered fearfully:

"Is this going to be my coffin?"

Then suddenly the winds shifted — and blew me back on course toward England!

One morning I heard sea gulls. That wonderful sound meant I was near shore.

Enquirer Contest Winner . . . The Youngest Mom in America

Vivian Lattimore was just 12 years old when her daughter Barbara was born — and that distinction has won her the $150 prize in our Youngest Mom in America contest.

"People still think Barbara and I are sisters when we go out together," Vivian, now 29, told The ENQUIRER.

Incredibly, Vivian has been a grandmother for nearly two years — daughter Barbara, now 17, gave birth to a daughter Shakkia, 20 months ago.

"I like to go out with Shakkia and let people think she's mine. They never even ask questions about her. They just assume she's my daughter."

ter," said Vivian, of Nashville, Tenn.

Vivian, who was born Dec. 24, 1952, admits she was "shocked and surprised" when she found out she was pregnant. Barbara was born Aug. 30, 1965.

"When Barbara was born, it was the most wonderful thing in the world. She was so cute, like a cuddly little doll. I loved her."

Vivian later had three more children — Trisha, 14,

Kelvin, 11, and Ralph, 9. And since she was so young, she grew up with them.

Said Vivian: "Sometimes people ask me if I was too young to have a child. And I'll say, 'Probably, but I wouldn't give any of them up for a minute. Every day I thank God for the wonderful family He gave me.'"

Her husband Ralph, who adopted her children after Vivian married him eight years ago, added: "We're just one big happy family. We don't regret one minute of it."

NOW AT LAST, YOU CAN GET IT TOO!

The Amazing "Face-Lift-In-A-Jar" Used by Hollywood Stars Who Don't Want Plastic Surgery

Have you seen Tova Borgnine lately? She really looks great! In fact, according to her husband Ernest, Tova now has the skin of a teenager!

And what about Ernie himself? His friends are all saying he looks younger now than he did 10 years ago. Actually, he looks so good many of his co-stars have accused him of having a face-lift.

But Ernie hasn't had a face-lift and neither has his wife Tova. Both of them, however, do have a certain little secret.

Fortunately, for the rest of us, this "little Hollywood secret" isn't so secret anymore. Soon it will be in stores all over the country and even now you can get it by mail! Officially, it's called TOVA 9 but everyone in Hollywood simply refers to it as "Tova's Face-Lift-In-A-Jar."

It is certainly not cheap but the stars who use it say it works like magic. The whole process takes only half an hour and insiders say there is nothing like it for anybody who wants to look years younger without the bother and complications of plastic surgery.

It is easy to use. All you do is apply the cream to your face and wait. "The cream is pink when you apply it, and gradually turns white," says Tova. "After it turns white it should be removed. One of the great things about it is that there is no guess work. It 'knows' what to do by itself!"

Mrs. Borgnine says the secret of this remarkable look-young treatment was first discovered by the Aztec Indians centuries ago. She says it comes from the roots of a very rare cactus plant and that it is 100% natural pure and, until Tova came into the picture, it was only available in certain very remote sections in Mexico.

But what about the results? Does it really work? Here is what others say:

"... The results are obvious!" — Brenda Vaccaro

"... My skin loves them!" — Jessica Walters

"TOVA 9 has a fresh just showered feeling!" — Connie Stevens

"I couldn't be more pleased with the results..." — Maureen Dean

"I am amazed with the texture of my face..." — Jed Allen

"... Tova certainly has something for everyone!" — Debbie Reynolds

"... A total beauty treatment as well as an indulging, pampering treat!" — Tommy & Jo Lasorda

"My complexion is not only very important to my career, but it is considered my best feature. Consequently, I guard it with my life — no sun, watch my diet, proper rest and the use of marvelous products such as TOVA 9." — Jayne Meadows

It goes on and on. A complete list of everybody who uses TOVA 9 would fill up this entire page and it would read like a virtual "Who's Who in Hollywood." Actually, many of your favorite movie and TV stars absolutely swear by it. In fact, author Harold Robbins (The Carpetbaggers) says flatly, "I won't travel without it!"

Would you like to try this remarkable discovery? Would you like to have the beauty of youth without the expense and hassle of other methods? If so, here's how you can try TOVA 9 without any risk at all: Simply go ahead and order "Tova's Secret Weapon" by mail or telephone. Then, try it out in the privacy of your home, and take a close look at the amazing change you will see in your mirror! Lucy Gives In — She and Desi Will Team Up Again for 'I Love Lucy'

By JOHN COOKE and ALASTAIR GREGOR

Good news for "I Love Lucy" fans — Lucille Ball's teaming with ex-hubby Desi Arnaz for an updated version of the smash '50s series. Lucy had resisted doing the show until now because she thought it could never be the same without her late pals Vivian Vance and William Frawley, who played the Mertzes. But she's changed her mind because Eve Arden and comic Sheeky Greene will co-star as her wacky Mertz-type neighbors. They'll do a special, and if it snags high ratings six others will follow.

Art Metrano of "Joanie Loves Chachi" is in shape — but unfortunately it's a watermelon shape. That's why Art, who plays Uncle Rico, is lifting weights and doing other exercises to get fit. By the time the new TV season starts, Art's hoping to look like the Incredible Hulk instead of the Incredible Bulk.

Big feud boiling on "Dynasty" between Pamela Sue Martin and Joan Collins. Pam, who plays Fallon, is sizzling because all the meaty "bitch" scenes this season are going to Joan, who plays Alexis. Pam's telling pals she wants out. She cattily told an interviewer in Chile that Joan is "an old-type movie star" and that her vaunted beauty "is over 50 years old." Joan, who's 49, is steaming over the crack.

A crackpot's stalking Cindy Williams, and he has the frightened "Laverne & Shirley" star in tears. The lovesick weirdo claims he's a member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle gang and says he's coming to get her. He's written Cindy 10 obscene letters, enclosing pix of himself, and says he wants her even though she's married and pregnant. Terrified Cindy is now sticking close to home.

In a surprise turnabout, CBS is bringing back "House Calls." Network execs canceled the show at the end of last season, then were red-faced to find reruns consistently in the top 10. Realizing they'd goofed, they powwowed with star Wayne Rogers and talked him into returning. The series will be back in mid-season. The only cast member who won't return is Sharon Gless, who now is starring in "Cagney & Lacey."

After a brief reconciliation with his children, Michael Landon has slipped back into his old ways that infuriated them before. He's now all wrapped up again in gal pal Cindy Clerico and his two TV shows, "Little Show biz can be dirty — especially if you try to diaper a pig! That's what former "Eight Is Enough" star Susan Richardson learned when she taped the syndicated TV show "The Mallibu Grand Prix" and had to perform this bizarre stunt. While Susan was in action, the baby pig bit her and she had to have first aid (an application of oinkment, perhaps?).

kids are being neglected. Landon has tried to talk it out with his son, but they always end up arguing.

Robert Culp of "The Greatest American Hero," so nearsighted that he couldn't read his cue cards without glasses, underwent a new type of eye operation to correct the problem. In the surgery a doctor cut a slit in the cornea of Culp's eyes and he walked out of the doc's office the same day. Now Culp, who plays Bill, doesn't need specs to read his cards.

Henry "Fonzie" Winkler's already making $175,000 per show on "Happy Days" — but his salary will zoom to a whopping $200,000 per episode on his spinoff, "Fonzie & Ashley," next season. That Here's the first peek at "M*A*S*H" star Loretta Swit's new slimline look. She's now 20 pounds lighter, and her producers will let her keep it off even though they would prefer her character "Hot Lips" to have more meat on her bones.

Debbie Reynolds and singer-dancer Joel Grey of "Cabaret" fame to guest-star on "Alice" this season. Grey will pocket $7,500 for his stint, while Debbie gets $10,000. Producers are hoping they'll lift the show's ratings, and are negotiating with superstars Bob Hope and Lucille Ball for appearances, too.

Penny Marshall plunged 10 feet on the "Laverne & Shirley" set and hit the floor with a bone-rattling crash. The fall happened when a wire suspending Penny, who was clad in a spacesuit, snapped. Taping was halted for 45 minutes while a doc checked Penny. He suggested X-rays — but plucky Penny insisted on finishing the scene first, and the whole cast and crew applauded her. She then was taken to LA's Cedars-Sinai hospital, but docs found only bruises.

"Love Boat" star Lauren "Julie" Tewes sailing off with an astonishing $2 million for two years as national spokeswoman for Ship 'n Shore women's blouses. And to celebrate, she plunked down $1.4 million for a plush 18-room LA mansion.

To slim down for his new series "Gavilan," Fernando Lamas put himself on a diet and made wife Esther Williams go on one, too. At Esther's recent birthday bash, tossed at an LA eatery, Lamas pushed away his chocolate soufflé dessert and so did Esther. But the minute he turned away to talk to another guest, Esther dived into hers — then gobbled up his, too. Lamas hit the roof and snapped, "I told you — no more desserts!" as poor Esther turned red.

"General Hospital" producers went into hysterics when "All My Children" edged their soap out of the No. 1 daytime slot after four years. They hopped on the phone and tried to talk Liz Taylor's agent into having her guest on the show right away — hoping she would lift the ratings as she did last season. But Liz' agent said she was too busy to appear until mid-September.

Rock singer Rex Smith has been signed to replace Andy Gibb as host of TV's "Solid Gold," and Andy is upset about it. Producers decided Gibb, who missed tapings after his shattering split with Victoria Principal of "Dallas," just isn't dependable enough to gamble on. Smith, who starred in Broadway's "Pirates of Penzance," gets a solid $400,000 a season for his "Solid Gold" efforts.

When Peggy Rea isn't playing Boss Hogg's wife on "The Dukes of Hazzard," it's a sure bet she can be found playing poker. Peggy learned the game just this year and now it's her favorite pastime. She plays with girlfriends for small change and seems to hog all the good hands — she's won up to $25 a game and has never lost more than $6.

Liza's Marriage Hits the Rocks

By R. Couri Hay

Divorce for Liza Minnelli and Mark Gero, pals predict. They're in Scream City because she loves to party and he's strictly pipe-and-slippers. Liza's telling pals there's not much left since her dream of a baby by Mark was shattered after two miscarriages — and she's giving up Jackie O's furious because the Kennedy clan told her to cool her oh-so-public romance with still-married diamond mogul Maurice Tempelsman — so she ordered them to keep out of her house in the family's Hyannis Port compound. The pad's off limits to all except Jackie's kids, Caroline and John Jr.

Sophia Loren went gaga over a 4-month-old baby girl she met during her recent jail term in Naples — so now she's sending $300 a month to little Antonietta Bebilacqua, who was living in the slammer with her mom, who's a penniless purse snatcher. Sophia's promised to act as the baby's foster parent.

Fistfight for cute kid actor Ricky Schroder, who costarred in "The Champ" — and punched like one when a young extra shoved him during a break in filming his "Silver Spoons" TV series. It seems the boy thought Ricky had insulted him — but Ricky was only cursing at losing a Pac-Man game. Ricky belted the kid, and fists flew until the crew broke it up.

Glen Campbell booed after cracking a nasty joke about blacks onstage at Resorts International in Atlantic City. Glen turned red and blacks exited angrily. The NAACP threatened a black boycott of Glen's future shows when he ignored their telegram demanding an apology.

Gorgeous Kirstie Alley, star of the "Star Trek II" movie, hammed it up with little patients at LA's Children's Hospital. She answered their questions about Capt. Kirk, Mr. Spock and the Starship Enterprise — and passed out such souvenirs as "Spock Ears."

Business sources close to Sylvester Stallone say he'll end up with a whopping $25 million for writing, directing and starring in "Rocky III." Sly's put his $2.5 million Beverly Hills mansion up for sale and is looking for a pad to match his tycoon status.

Oldest American to Graduate From High School Tells . . .

How I Got Straight A's — At Age 98

By JESSIE BYAM

An education is the most wonderful thing in the whole wide world. I know. I've been rolling around this old world for 98 years — and I've just graduated from high school!

On May 21 I became the oldest person in the U.S. to graduate from high school. I also became the proudest woman in the U.S.

I left school at age 17, after finishing 10th grade, to work for $3 a week in a silk mill. I was the second youngest of 16 children and the money I earned helped put food on the table.

But always, I had this dream of getting an education. I prayed that one day I would get the opportunity.

At age 94, out of the clear blue sky, the opportunity dropped in my lap. The Madison Heights, Mich., senior citizens' center started classes for old people who wanted to graduate from high school.

At last I could complete my education! I jumped at the chance to enroll.

And it has been one of the most wonderful experiences of my life. I studied for four years to get my diploma. We had all the subjects normally covered in high school — math, history, geography, science, social studies, etc.

I was a straight A student in all subjects. I did have an edge in history — I remembered many of the events we studied in our books. For example, when we studied the assassination of President William McKinley in 1901, I knew all about it.

I was actually in Buffalo when President McKinley was shot there by an anarchist named Leon Czolgosz.

I was 18 years old at the time, and I remember all the details. I had firsthand knowledge, as a witness to history.

I took school seriously. I was there to learn . . . and learn I did. Even on days when PROUD GRAD Jessie Byam holds her Madison High School diploma.

I didn't have to attend class, I would study on my own for an hour or two.

I was determined to pass . . . and I think this determination carried me through and helped me earn my diploma.

You're never too old to learn — I wanted to prove that. And I liked classes so much that I'm going back next year to get more learning. I love it.

All three arcs are from exactly the same circle, but the more you see of each arc the greater the curve seems to be.

Sensational New Book — The REAL Sizzling Story of a Top Sex Siren

Lana Turner's Loves — And the One Man She Could Never Get

She was one of Hollywood's hottest sex sirens — and offscreen, Lana Turner set Tinseltown buzzing with seven marriages and numerous sizzling romances. In the first exclusive ENQUIRER installment from the book "Always, Lana," Taylor Pero — Lana's secretary-manager for 10 years as well as her lover — reveals the shocking story behind her affair with Tyrone Power.

By TAYLOR PERO and JEFF ROVIN

Lana Turner loves to flirt — besides being married seven times, she romanced many of Hollywood's most famous names, including Howard Hughes, Victor Mature, Frank Sinatra and Fernando Lamas.

Hughes was easily the most colorful of these figures.

Lana said that, contrary to rumor, he was never dirty and did not have body odor despite the fact that he always seemingly wore the same pair of pants and white shirt with no tie.

But of all the amorous encounters Lana has had, she admits that the 33-year-old Tyrone Power was the one man she adored above all others, husband or beau — and the man who would never be hers. They were the most publicized couple of 1947, and without a doubt the handsomest.

Lana said that Power embodied everything she had ever wanted in a mate.

And, a rarity in her relationships, he had achieved the zenith of success and was not trying to use her.

Though he was still married to his first wife, Annabella, Lana fully expected Power to leave that already shaky union and marry her. It was not to be.

Lana's relationship with Power had its ups and horrible downs, its moments of humor and great tragedy.

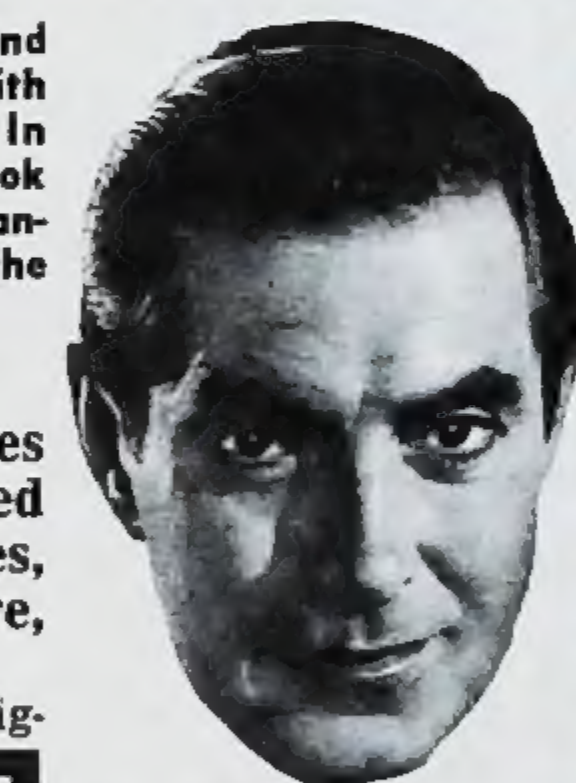

Lana tells one funny story about the time she was shooting a picture in the comfort of the MGM lot while Power was struggling in the wilds of Mexico filming the epic swashbuckler "Captain From Castile."

On impulse, Lana decided to take advantage of a two-day break in her shooting schedule to fly down and surprise her lover. She managed to do just that, but when it came time to return to the United States, bad weather prevented flights from leaving Mexico for several days. This meant a loss to MGM of thousands of dollars per day, and Lana was terrified when she finally returned. She very vividly describes how she crept onto the sound stage, which was empty and very dark.

TYRONE POWER

She inched her way inside, calling softly, "Hello? Anybody here?"

Suddenly, all the lights flared on and there stood the entire cast and crew of the film wearing sombreros and clicking castanets.

Lana turned bright red although, as ever, she was forgiven her indiscretion.

One night Lana alluded to the fact that she had become pregnant by Power. He was still working on "Captain From Castile" when she informed him that she thought she was going to have his child. Lana relived the hurt she had felt as she recounted his terse response to the news . . . His voice, she said, was clear and flat as he told her, "Get rid of it."

After finishing one of the finest movies of her career,

SIREN Lana Turner earned fame as The Sweater Girl.

"The Postman Always Rings Twice," the studio arranged a two-month "vacation" to South America. The trip was well-timed to comply with Power's blunt instructions.

As deeply in love as she was with Power, Lana was frustrated by his procrastination in obtaining a divorce. However, if it frustrated Lana that Power was mired in a marriage to someone else, it angered him no less to learn that Lana was dating other men.

The proverbial last straw from Power's point of view was Frank Sinatra, whom Lana dated more than once to try and jar Power into expediting his divorce.

She was clearly taking a calculated risk working on Power's jealousy and, much to Lana's public humiliation, her gamble did not pay off. Enraged, Power began to see beautiful actress Linda Christian. Soon thereafter, Power was divorced and married Linda. Lana was devastated.

NEXT WEEK: "I'll cut you up. I'll mutilate you so you'll be so repulsive you'll have to hide forever," Lana's gangster-lover screams at her — just before her teenage daughter plunges a knife into him and kills him . . . and a frantic Lana at first tries to get police to say she did it.

Celebrity Look-Alike

LOOK-ALIKE Mike Aiken is often mistaken for handsome "Dukes of Hazzard" star John Schneider (right).

The Spittin' Image of Bo Duke

$40 will be paid for every look-alike we publish. Send a recent photo to: Look-Alike, NATIONAL ENQUIRER, Lantana, Fla. 33464. And be sure to include your name, address and phone number.

Mike Aiken earns a living as a factory worker — but he knows what it feels like to be a TV star. Everywhere he goes, he's mistaken for John "Bo" Schneider of "The Dukes of Hazzard."

"Kids follow me around and say, 'Hey, mister, you look like Bo.'"
"Are you?" said Mike, 20, who's 6-foot-1, weighs 160 pounds and has green eyes and blond hair.
He lives in Greer, S.C., works in a cigarette plant and loves driving sporty cars.
"The whole 'Bo' thing started just about two summers ago," he said.
"Suddenly, everywhere I went people started calling me 'Bo.'"
"With my hair, looks and build they actually think I'm

John Schneider and follow me around as if I were a TV star.
In the summer, when my hair gets even more blond after getting bleached by the sun, the kids get even more persistent.
"In the street the other day a little boy nearly wrecked his bicycle when he saw me."
"Bo!" he screamed, and nearly fell off.
"I have to admit, I get a kick out of being a celebrity look-alike."

Cholesterol Is Good for You

Cholesterol is a dirty word to most of us — but it's actually essential to good health, say experts.

"You couldn't live without it," says Dr. Joseph Judd, Ph.D., of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Though it's linked with heart disease, cholesterol also has some good points.

The body needs cholesterol so much it makes its own supply in the liver, according to another expert, Dr. Basil M. Rifkind.

"Cholesterol does have a definite role in the body. Every body cell has cholesterol as an essential part of it; it's particularly essential for the outer surface of the cell," said Dr. Rifkind, chief of the Lipid Metabolism and Atherogenesis Branch of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute.

"It's also required for the manufacture of certain essential hormones that we couldn't live without, particularly those produced in the adrenal glands."

But cholesterol deserves black marks when it comes to heart disease, the doctors warned.

"The more cholesterol you eat, the higher the cholesterol level in the blood," said Dr. Rifkind. "And there is a lot of evidence to suggest that the higher blood level has a lot to do with heart attack."

Excess cholesterol gets into the bloodstream and some of it is deposited in the arteries, explained Dr. Judd, chief of the lipid nutrition lab at the USDA's Human Nutrition Research Center in Beltsville, Md. Over the years, as the deposits build up, the arteries become narrower in some people until they look like encrusted water pipes. Eventually the arteries cannot get blood to and from the heart. The result: painful angina, heart attack or heart failure.

On the other hand, very low levels of cholesterol have been linked to certain types of cancer in men, particularly colon cancer, a National Institutes of Health panel recently reported.

There are two major forms of cholesterol — one that tends to clog arterial vessels, and another that sweeps these vessels clean, said Dr. Rifkind. "Cholesterol is a fat that can't be dissolved in the blood. To travel in the blood it attaches to certain proteins, which we call lipoproteins."

"Low-density lipoproteins appear to deposit cholesterol in the arteries. But high-density lipoproteins appear to be protective against heart disease by removing cholesterol from arteries."

RAPE ROBBERY MURDER

Not very pleasant words are they? Yet, according to a recently published F.B.I. report, rapes occur every 8 minutes in America, robbery every 78 seconds, and murder every 27 minutes.

The above figures from the 1977 F.B.I. crime reports. How can we, as responsible citizens, protect ourselves and still remain within the law? Well, thanks to modern technology and the rise of the space age, we now have the answer.

Common Myths — And The Facts — About Sex

Common myths about sex can create irrational fears and cause problems in your sex life, warns expert Dr. Michael Carrera.

Here are some of the more common sexual myths — and the real facts:

MYTH: Husbands usually look around for another sex partner when their wives are pregnant because they don't get enough sex.

FACT: Although some husbands have extramarital sex at that time, it is less frequent than many believe.

MYTH: Using a sex aid is a sign of perversion.

FACT: There is nothing wrong with using a sex aid to add excitement to sex as long as both partners agree.

MYTH: You cannot get pregnant if you have sex standing up.

FACT: Yes you can.

MYTH: If a man gets enough sex, he is not likely to rape.

FACT: False. Violence, aggression and anger are the primary forces in the personality of a rapist — and rape is used to express them. Sexual desire and gratification are not the main factors.

MYTH: The majority of adults disapprove of sex education programs.

FACT: Recent public opinion polls show that 77 percent of adults favor sex education programs. Also, formal sex education programs have been endorsed by the National Council of Churches, the Synagogue Council of America and the United States Catholic Conference.

MYTH: No positive results of sex education programs have been found.

FACT: There is evidence of gains in the areas of improved knowledge, of more understanding attitudes and also in the area of changes in behavior.

A Juicy Way To Waste Your Tax Dollars

Fruitcakes at the National Science Foundation (NSF) gave seven U.S. scientists $11,668 of your hard-earned tax money so they could fly to Ecuador and talk about a fruit you never heard of.

It's called naranjilla. And it's not grown or sold in the U.S.

"It's grown commercially in Ecuador, Peru and Colombia," said a spokesman for the scientists. "It is very popular as a cool drink — the South American equivalent to orange juice."

Purpose of the visit was to exchange "information relevant to improved cultivation of the fruit," the NSF stated.

The professor said an American company once looked into the idea of growing naranjilla but concluded that "it was uneconomical."

Fumed Guy White, director of the United Tax Action Committee: "If South American countries want to have research done on this fruit, that's fine — but it shouldn't be done at the expense of the hard-working American taxpayer."

By Dr. RONALD GATTY
Food Marketing Expert

On Labor Day weekend, you'll probably be having your last great outdoor picnic and barbecue. And luckily, there's a feast of good inexpensive foods in September!

Look for good specials in hot dogs, hamburger meats and spareribs. And chicken will be very fairly priced as well. Seafood also makes good picnic fare lightly roasted over coals or as a salad. In many parts of the U.S., September is the last excellent month for low-priced local fish. And there will be specials on frozen fillets and fish sticks. Hard clams and mussels are inexpensive, too.

This is also the last month for fresh corn. Salads will be bountiful, with ample inexpensive vegetables available — celery, cauliflower, scallions, Spanish onions, carrots, green cabbage, cucumbers and zucchini. New potatoes will be plentiful, as well as tomatoes.

Watch for a temporary drop in the price of lettuce. And among vegetables, snap beans and eggplants are coming to the end of their season. Other good cheap vegetables are acorn squash, rutabagas and yams.

This year, there's a huge crop of grapes. Try the Ruby Seedless, Tokay, Emperor, Ribier and Calmeria.

The fresh apple season is getting under way with reasonable prices on McIntosh and Jonathans, both good for cooking and eating raw.

Buy your last few boxes of delicious blueberries before the season fades. It's been such a good year for them, at very fair prices! Also look over the nectarines, peaches and prune plums. You may see good quality at a reasonable price.

For a super September recipe, you'll love this lime sauce for basting chicken or seafood.

Over low heat, melt ½ cup of margarine with half a clove of garlic, crushed. Blend in 2 teaspoons flour, then add ½ cup water, 3 tablespoons lime juice, 1½ teaspoons sugar, ½ teaspoon or more of chili sauce (according to taste), ½ teaspoon pepper and the same amount of dried dill.

Stir as you heat to boiling. Remove promptly and baste your chicken or seafood. You'll have about one cup of sauce, enough for six people.

Communications Gap

A woman approached a lawyer and demanded that he help her divorce her husband. "Do you have grounds?" the lawyer asked.

"Oh, yeah, we have an acre."

The lawyer pondered this in silence for a moment. "What I mean is, do you have a grudge?"

"No," she answered, "but we have a carport."

The lawyer decided he'd use another tactic. "Does your husband beat you up?"

"No, I'm usually up before him by half an hour."

The lawyer silently acknowledged his defeat. "Lady, exactly why do you want a divorce?"

"Why, it's just impossible to hold an intelligent conversation with that man!"

Home Computers: Who Needs 'Em?

By SUSAN KRAJEWSKI

Don't get suckered into buying a home computer. They can create more problems than they solve, experts warn.

What's worse, these computer systems cost an arm and a leg.

"The home computer is a triumph of technology over practicality."

"A home computer is tremendously fast and efficient at doing things the average person doesn't normally do — or will ever need to do — around the house," said Charles Finley, a computer applications consultant who conducts seminars at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Most home computer systems on the market are basically the same systems being sold to small businesses, according to Finley. The systems, he noted, are tremendously useful and are worth their cost for a small business.

But their uses in a home are greatly exaggerated, the experts agree.

"We hear of all kinds of applications for a home computer — balancing your checkbook, controlling your heating system or keeping a recipe file," said Dr. Koichi Isshiki, professor of computer information systems at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

"But that's not really practical."

"It takes more time to punch in the information than the time you'll save by using it."

For the average person, he added, "The application is very limited."

A home computer system can cost up to $2,000 — and the programs and additional equipment you'll need can push the price tag as high as $4,000.

Said Dr. Harvey Eastman, director of academic computing at the University of Southern California.

"For most people, the only use for a home computer is to play computer games on them."

"But systems that hook up to your television set will do the same thing at far less cost."

"I work with computers all day — and I can't convince myself to buy a personal one for my home."

These are just a few of the exciting changes in store for TV viewers when they tune in to their favorite shows this season.

You'll see fresh new faces, new locations and surprising plot twists. Here are some of the changes being planned:

"Little House: A New Beginning" — Michael Landon and Karen Grassie will be gone from the series, but will return for guest appearances. The show will now center on the lives of Laura Ingalls Wilder and her husband Almanzo. Shannen Doherty will play Almanzo's niece who comes to live with them. Landon's real-life daughter, Leslie, will join the cast as the new schoolteacher Etta Plum.

"Quincy" — Jack Klugman will travel to Japan in a special four-part episode. In addition, Quincy will not be seen drinking as much. Klugman, who's given up hard liquor, wants to set an example for others.

"Father Murphy" — John Murphy, who posed as a priest to keep an orphanage open, and Mae Woodward were married last season; this year they'll have a baby, in a heart-warming episode to be aired in November.

"Real People" — After several years as a roving reporter, Bill Rafferty will become a regular co-host. Kerry Millerick will step into Rafferty's roving reporter shoes. The show's cast and crew will take an excursion train from Los Angeles to Chicago, doing stories on real people in small towns along the way.

"Facts of Life" — In a special episode, Mrs. Garrett will take the girls from Eastland School on a trip to Paris.

"CHiPs" — Because of money disputes and personal disagreements, Larry Wilcox, Randi Oakes and Brodie Greer have left the show. Tom Reilly will debut as Erik Estrada's new sidekick. Tina Gayle will play the new lady cop on the show.

"Happy Days" — Fonzie will fall in love with a divorced mother, played by Linda Purl — and will get married in the new season. A niece, played by Crystal Bernard, will move in with the Cunninghams. Pat Morita, original proprietor of Arnold's Drive-In, will return to the show.

"Dynasty" — Several key characters will leave the show — Dr. Nick Toscanni, Blake Carrington's son Steven, and Blake's arch-business rival, Cecil Colby. Canadian actor Gordon Thomson will be introduced as Adam Carrington, long-lost son of Blake.

"The Love Boat" — This year the cruise ship will stop at picturesque ports in Turkey, Greece and Italy — and special guests will include "Dynasty's" Linda Evans, Ernest Borgnine and popular Mike Connors.

"The Greatest American Hero" — Our hero Ralph and his attorney ladyfriend Pam will cap their erratic romance with a trip down the aisle.

CBS "Private Benjamin" — A funny new character, Pvt. Stacy Kouchalakas, played by Wendie Jo Sperber, adds more laughs to the show.

"Magnum, P.I." — Characters on this show will cross over and appear on "Simon & Simon," and vice versa.

"The Dukes of Hazzard" — With the walkout of heartthrobs John Schneider and Tom Wopat, two new Duke boys will be introduced — Byron Cherry as Coy Duke and Christopher Mayer as cousin Vance Duke.

Loads of Old Stars Returning in New Shows

Popular TV stars don't just fade away, they eventually come back on new shows — and this coming season proves it!

Rock Hudson, Patty Duke Astin, Sally Struthers, Burgess Meredith, Robert Urich, Richard Crenna and Bob Newhart are just a few of the veterans who will star in brand-new series.

Handsome Rock Hudson, who is best known for his role as the police commissioner in "McMillan and Wife," will star as a private investigator in the NBC comedy-drama "The Devlin Connection."

The show was originally scheduled for last fall, but was postponed when Hudson had heart surgery.

Bubbly and blonde Sally Struthers will star in CBS' "Gloria," recreating her role as Archie Bunker's daughter from her years on "All in the Family." She will play a divorcee working for a small town veterinarian.

And the veteran Burgess Meredith, whose TV career spans more than 30 years, will play her boss.

Richard Crenna and Patty Duke Astin will team up on ABC's "It Takes Two." Crenna played the grandson on "The Real McCoys" as well as the dim-witted Walter Denton on "Our Miss Brooks."

Astin is best known for her dual role playing the look-alike cousins Patty and Cathy in the 1960s hit series "The Patty Duke Show."

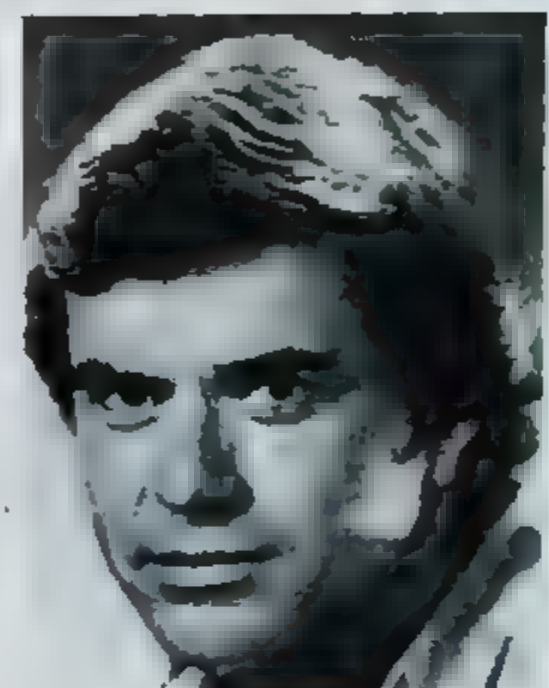

Robert Urich, once the best-looking private eye in "Vega$, " will play a James Bond-type investigator in NBC's "Gavilan," an action-packed dramatic show.

Teaming up as "The New Odd Couple" on ABC will be former "Sanford and Son" star Demond Wilson and Ron Glass, who played the ambitious, well-dressed Detective Ron Harris on "Barney Miller."

Comedian Bob Newhart — who played a psychologist married to Suzanne Pleshette on "The Bob Newhart Show" — will star in CBS' "Newhart" as the proprietor of a cozy old New England inn.

The inn's crusty caretaker will be Tom Poston, who recently played the role of the grouchy downstairs neighbor on "Mork & Mindy."

Lou Gossett — an Emmy Award winner for his role as Fiddler on the miniseries "Roots" — will be appearing in NBC's "The Powers of Matthew Star" as the guard-

Noah Beery Jr. — who played James Garner's father in "The Rockford Files" for six years — will be back on ABC's adventure series "The Quest."

The stars of "Bridget Loves Bernie," David Birney and Meredith Baxter Birney, will both appear in new series on NBC.

Birney, who also starred as TV's "Serpico," will appear in the medical drama, "St Elsewhere," while his wife, who was in "Family," will star in "Family Ties."

TV Technology Brings New Improvements on Old Ideas

There's not much new in TV technology this year — but there are a few fascinating innovations that will add excitement to your home entertainment.

Among them are a TV set that lets you make phone calls with the touch of a button... a tiny, lightweight TV you can carry around on a wrist strap... your own "electronic locks" to keep the kids from watching R- or X-rated movies on TV... and amazing advances in video games.

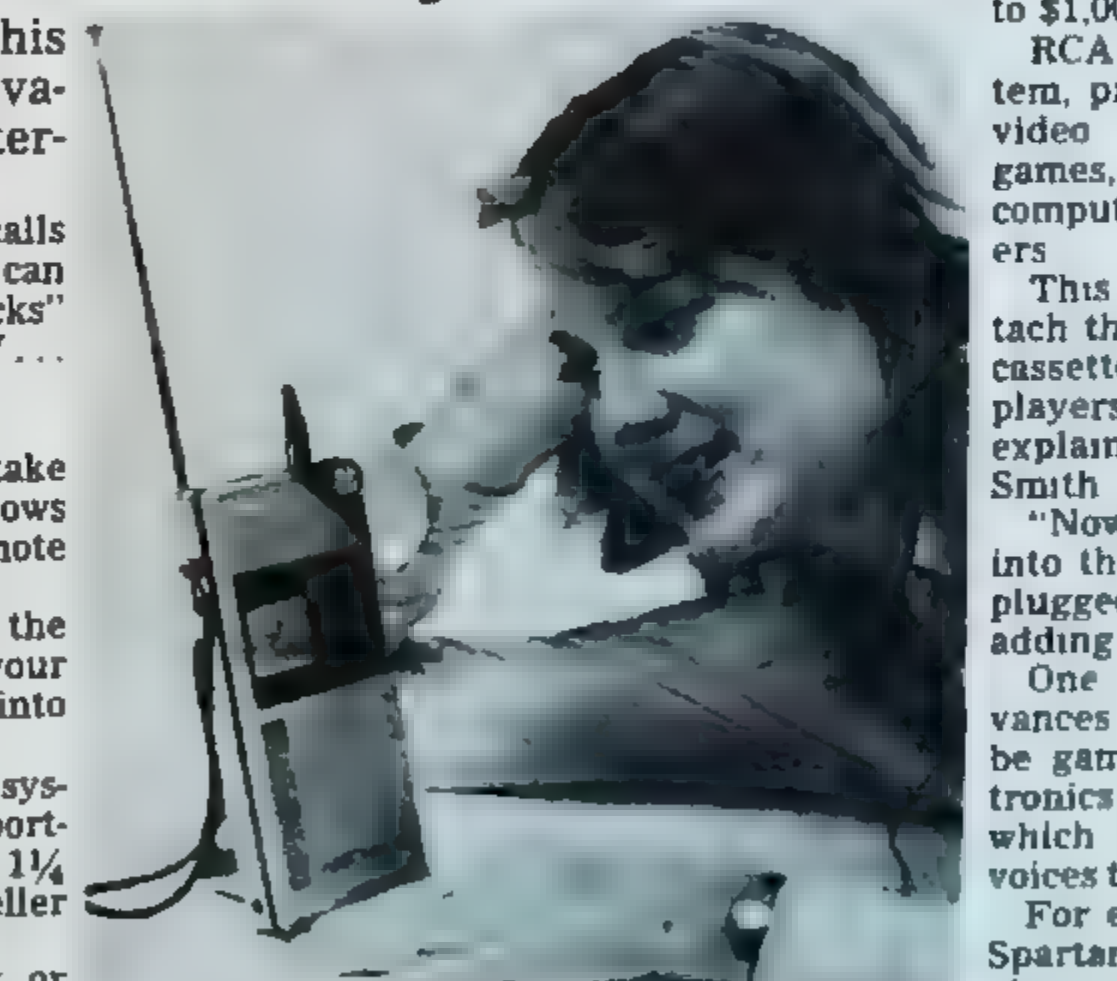

And they're all on the market now or soon will be. Zenith, which pioneered the system that lets you take phone calls through your TV set, now has a system that allows you to punch out phone numbers using your hand-held remote control TV switch.

The calls are routed through your TV set — you hear the voice of the other party through your TV speaker and your own voice is transmitted by a sensitive microphone built into the set. The new sets cost $600 to $1,000.

Sony, which popularized "Walkman" portable stereo system, is coming out in November with "Watchman" — a portable, pocket-size TV costing between $250 and $300. Only 1 1/4 inches thick, it has a 2-inch screen and it's already a big seller in gadget-crazy Japan.

"You can carry it in your hand, wear it on your belt, or stand it up on a foldaway stand," said Sony spokeswoman Angela Phillips. "You listen to it through an earphone."

If you want to control what programs your children watch without standing over them like a watchdog, General Electric has the TV set for

TINY Sony "Watchman" has 2-inch screen

you. It's equipped with Channel Block Out, a device that permits you to black out any number of chan-to $1,000, depending on the set size. RCA has a set with a built-in system, pre-wired to accept up to five video accessories, such as video games, video disc players, home computers or videocassette recorders.

This means you won't have to attach the decoders for games, videocassette recorders or video disc players to the back of your TV set, explained RCA spokesman Charles Smith.

"Now you can just plug them right into the monitor and they can stay plugged in all the time," he said, adding that the sets cost about $750.

One of the most innovative advances in video games this year will be games that "talk." Mattel Electronics has created Intellivoice — which uses game cartridges with voices taking part in the games.

For example, in one game, Space Spartans, a female voice tells the player — who is the commander of a spaceship — "Hello, commander, computer reporting." She then keeps you informed of the status of your ship as you battle alien invaders.

How to Beat the End-of-Summer Blues

A lot of people suffer from the "end of summer" blues, that letdown feeling of nothing to look forward to in the fall.

But you can beat those blues—which range from just feeling bored and fatigued to depression that can interfere with sleeping, eating and working habits—with these tips from two health experts.

1. Plan some fall weekend jaunts.

Most parts of the country have such beautiful seasonal changes. Take advantage of them by going on sight-seeing trips by car or special excursion bus tours.

Nature trails, bird sanctuaries, wild game parks and zoos are ideal places to visit in the fall when the weather's not too hot. And pack a picnic basket when you take a daylong trip.

Also, check up on your vacation time.

If you've used it all, ask your boss if you can borrow a few vacation days from the coming year for a fall getaway.

2. Don't drop your favorite summer activities just because summer's past.

Many schools and colleges have indoor pools that you can arrange to use. Some even offer special family or individual memberships.

Keep your summer tan year-round by joining a health club with a sun room.

If you play tennis, switch to indoor courts. Take up ice skating, skiing or racquetball. Join a gym to stay in shape.

Practice your golf swing at an indoor range.

3. Plan a list of indoor activities.

Work on the indoor projects you were too busy for in the summer. Go to museums, special lectures, concerts, plays or movies.

4. Enroll in a school or class.

Fall meant the beginning of school when you were younger. Relive the good old days and make yourself feel young again by signing up for a course at your local high school or college.

5. Plan a new winter wardrobe.

Watch the fashion pages for the latest styles. Window-shop at local stores.

Buy winter clothes in bright summer colors—reds, greens, blues, yellows and oranges.

To lift your spirits even more, add brightly colored hats, gloves, socks and leg warmers to your winter wardrobe.

6. Move your furniture around.

Position sofas and chairs around a central spot, such as a fireplace. It will make everyone feel cozier.

Bring out the quilts you stored away in the spring. Hang them on your bedroom wall to add a new feeling of warmth that will make the room feel smaller and more intimate during the long winter nights.

You can also brighten up the walls throughout your

1st Successful Treatment Against Dreaded Form of Cancer

Doctors are having amazing success in combating one of the deadliest cancers known to man—a type of brain tumor that kills all of its victims.

In a revolutionary new drug treatment, researchers have eliminated or reduced the tumors in four of six patients who—at the time therapy began—were expected to live less than one month.

The four patients have now survived an average of 5½ months. One of the other two patients died of lung collapse unrelated to treatment, and the sixth died when his family removed him from the program.

All the patients had undergone surgery and radiation therapy without success.

But following the new treatment the tumor completely disappeared in one and tumors were reduced in size in the other three. "All of our patients have shown remarkable improvement on the CAT scan," said Dr. Shashidhar Kori, assistant professor of neurology at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

The American Cancer Society estimates that there will be 6,000 new cases of the deadly brain tumor in 1982. This type of tumor kills most of its victims in less than a year. Up to now, there has been no effective treatment.

But doctors at Case Western have been able to deliver lifesaving anticancer drugs directly to the tumor site, getting through the blood brain barrier (BBB) that usually keeps these drugs out. "The BBB is a filter, put in by nature, which selectively allows some substances to get into the brain and keeps certain other substances out," Dr. Kori explained. "Most of the drugs available for treating cancer in the rest of the body cannot be used for treating brain tumors because they cannot cross the BBB."

But Dr. Kori and his team were able to cross the BBB by infusing a substance called mannitol into the carotid artery in the neck, then injecting two drugs—Adriamycin and 5FU.

"Dr. Kori was dealing with terminal patients, ones for whom all else had failed," said Dr. Irvine Gray McQuarrie, assistant professor in the department of neurosurgery at Case Western.

"This tumor is so bad that any treatment that keeps people alive longer would be an advance.

"The early results are very promising but further controlled studies must be done."

Dr. Mort Smith, an orthodontist whose patients are mostly children, says he'll do anything to make them feel more relaxed and comfortable. Above, a young patient grins as Dr. Smith and his assistant make him feel comfortable in the dentist's chair. Govt. Carries Tax Waste to New Heights

Free-spending bureaucrats have their heads in the clouds — they are shelling out $43,805 to study how altitude affects children and young adults living in Nepal.

Thanks to the generous handout from the tax-supported National Science Foundation, university researchers will compare the growth rate of youngsters living at a very high altitude with those living in low-altitude areas.

And as a special added bonus, the pie-in-the-sky study will also take a look at how a recent influx of tourists has affected the high-altitude children's physical development. "It's outrageous!" fumed Rep. Larry McDonald (D-Ga.) "It's incredible that tax funds are being squandered for ridiculous studies such as this while Americans are finding it more difficult to put food on the table."

"It's high time the bureaucrats got back down to the level of the American public!"

Show of Confidence

A little boy went to a doctor for a throat checkup and noticed a religious medal hanging from the medic's neck.

"What's that for?" he asked.

"Oh, that's to help me get to Heaven," the doc replied. "Wouldn't you like to go to Heaven?"

"Sure," the kid said.

"Well, now, what do you think we must do to get there?"

"We must die."

"Ah, yes, of course," the doc smiled. "But what must we do before that?"

The boy pondered and then said, "We must get sick and send for you."

'Love Boat' Costar, 15, Sails Into Romance With Actor, 21

By ANGELA BROOKS

Bubbly Jill Whelan, 15-year-old star of "The Love Boat," is sailing happily through her first romance with 21-year-old actor John Henry — and her parents have given their seal of approval.

"John is absolutely smitten with Jill — and she's been swept off her feet by John," revealed a mutual friend of the couple.

Jill, who plays Vicki Stubing on the hit series, told The ENQUIRER: "I'm very fond of John. He's a real gentleman and a wonderful dancer."

And John confided: "I love Jill. She's the most wonderful girl. She certainly doesn't act like a 15-year-old. She's very mature, intelligent, vibrant and outgoing. She's unique."

The mutual friend of the couple said: "In the beginning, I passed it all off as puppy love. But over the months it's developed into a full-blown romance and Jill has really blossomed.

"She's like a young woman just coming into her own."

The couple met when John coached the dancers in a production at Jill's high school. Jill was in the chorus, but John was afraid to ask her out.

Finally, Jill took the initiative and invited John to a rock concert last January — and their romance grew from there.

A friend of the actress confided: "John's over at Jill's house for dinner frequently and they go out two or three times a week."

"Neither of them sees anyone else and Jill is always talking about how special and wonderful John is."

At first, Jill's parents worried about her dating someone six years older. But all that's changed now, according to their mutual friend.

"John's feelings for Jill are so apparent and he's so gentle with her when they're together that her parents welcomed him with open arms."

"Jill may be young, but she knew John was right for her from the very start. They're a perfect couple."

STEADY DATING: "Love Boat" star Jill Whelan and John Henry.

You Can Make It!

If you can take it, you can make it! When you are criticized, remember the words of J.M. Gibson: "Only God can form and paint a flower, but any foolish child can pull it to pieces." Remember, if you have no detractors, you probably have no projects. If you can take — and welcome — constructive criticism in a spirit of gratitude, you can make it!

If you can take sacrifice and self-denial without complaining, you can make it. "There is but one virtue," wrote George Sand, "the eternal sacrifice of self." If you can study when others are playing, if you can practice when others are wasting time, then you can and will make it.

If you can take self-discipline without becoming discouraged, you can make it. Ponder these words of William Penn: "No pain, no palm; no thorns, no throne; no gall, no glory; no cross, no crown."

If you can take the imperfections of others without being impatient, you can make it. If you want others to be patient with you, be patient with others. Remember, even the most pressing human relations problems can be ironed out by applying the Golden Rule.

Boss of Oil Empire Says: Positive Thinking & Drive Made Me a Success

Mary Hudson heads one of the largest empires in the oil business, the Hudson Oil Company — and she started it all with a $200 loan!

WOMEN AT THE TOP

The company she founded runs some 250 gas stations in 33 states and its 1,300 employees pumped a staggering $500 million worth of gasoline last year.

And you can get to the top just like Mary with hard work and positive thinking, says the 69-year-old grandmother. "Always remember that the most important thing is your attitude. You don't have to be rich or have a Ph.D. when you start out, but you must have a positive outlook," she confided.

"You need to be optimistic, aggressive, enthusiastic, willing to work hard and willing to take chances."

Mrs. Hudson took her first chance in 1934 when she was a 21-year-old widow with an infant daughter. She borrowed $200 from her father and bought a gas station in Kansas City.

"The station started to profit. I was anxious to expand," Mary said. "You have to gamble in order to succeed."

Six years later, she owned 40 stations in three states — and she's been building her empire steadily ever since.

During the oil embargo of the 1970s, Mrs. Hudson was forced to slash the number of Hudson stations in half. But the shrewd businesswoman took the experience as a lesson — and bought her own oil refinery in 1977.

Today she keeps a tight fist on the company as president and chief executive officer.

She's recognized in the oil industry as the only woman who ever started an oil company, the only woman who ever started a refining business and the industry's only top woman executive.

And her hard work has paid off. She lives in a luxurious 39-room mansion in Mission Hills, Kans. She also owns properties worldwide.

She's convinced anyone can be as successful as she's been.

"Set your mind on success and don't let anything sway you," she said.

"Concentrate your energy on getting the job done — and on developing a sincere enthusiasm for it."

Your Other Selves

Awaken the Psychic You

There is more to you than you suspect. Self goes far deeper than surface consciousness. Man is not fully conscious—that is, using the whole potential of his awareness—until he develops the dormant psychic energy every human possesses.

The occasional hunch, the intuitive flash, and inspiring ideas you have—they are attributes of the psychic, the real you, awaiting fuller expression. The use of the other levels of consciousness at your command is not fantasy but the application of natural cosmic law. Creative imagination, reception of the unspoken thoughts of others, the ability to clearly comprehend and master circumstances are the result of the awakening of the intuitive psychic self.

I Do It ALL The Time

I would like to share with you my Step-By-Step Money-Making Method that could change your current situation and show you how to earn up to $500, $1,000 or $3,000 every week.

This Money-Making Method Could Be Just What You Have Been Looking For

Last month I made $15,420.00 dollars working four hours a day, five days a week. This month I will do over $15,000.00 dollars and take one week off to spend on my Virginia Estate.

Not I Am NOT a Saleswoman!

I Am A Businesswoman with a very Unique Business, that is PERFECTLY LEGAL and does not take a lot of Brains or Special Business Education to run.

Let Me Introduce Myself.

My name is Debra Grubbs. I am 28 years old, and in Business for Myself. My office phone number is 703-450-4780. My accountants name is Everett Callaway, CPA, and he has a copy of my financial statements showing that my gross income was over $200,000.00 last year.

Believe me I am Not bragging, but eight months ago I went from driving an old clunker to owning a Cadillac Seville, paid for in cash. Seven months ago I went from paying for a small home in a old neighborhood, to Owning three homes; one is just out side of prestigious Middleburg, Virginia.

All Because Of A New Money-Making Method That is Perfect For Both Men and Women

The techniques have Never Before been Revealed, in any book, newspaper or television show, and is just right for a person who would like to make up to $500, $1,000 or $3,000 a week working out of their HOME.

NO! It has Nothing To Do With Real Estate.

WAIT! Before we go any further, let me make this point VERY CLEAR. This New Money-Making Method has NOTHING to do with:

Investing In The Stock Market!
Buying or Selling Real Estate!
Gambling of Any Kind!
Pyramid Schemes!

Telephone or Door-To-Door Selling!

This Money-Making Method is New and only a select number of people in this country know about it.

Over $30,000 In 60 Days!

The following information was compiled by my business manager, Angela Beardsley Bank Deposits for the last two months:

January 4, ...$2,898.71
January 7, ...$4,243.00
January 12, ...$3,141.00
January 29, ...$5,139.00
TOTAL INCOME ...$15,420.71

February 3, ...$3,750.72
February 9, ...$2,970.51
February 15, ...$4,941.00
February 27, ...$3,340.67
TOTAL INCOME ...$15,002.90

Let's Get One Thing Straight!

This plan is perfectly honest, legal and moral in every sense of the word. If it wasn't, believe me, I wouldn't be involved in it.

It is NOT a Chain Letter Scheme And, NO! It is Not Difficult To Make Up To $15,000 A Month.

I know dozens of people, from all walks of life, who have already started making money by applying these Money-Making methods, and have been making hundreds of dollars in their spare time with them.

And, the most amazing thing about it, is that most of them are making the majority of their income from the use of these methods and not from their full-time employment.

You Can Start The Money-Making Method Without A Lot Of Money!

I wish you could have the opportunity to spend one hour with my business associate, who invented this program, so you would know and soon feel the same way as I do. If he says you can make a fortune with his method, you can bet on it.

But right now, as I talk to you, the important fact is that he has invented the Money-Making Method titled: "How To Get By On $10,000 Dollars A Day," that will show you how to earn up to $15,000 dollars every 30 days.

I Do It ALL The Time, And I Will Give You A 100% GUARANTEE If you are not satisfied!

I have placed on deposit $10,000.00 in a special interest bearing account. This will guarantee repayment to anyone who is not satisfied with my money-making program. So you are, in fact, "Doubly Guaranteed" of complete satisfaction.

All The Money You Make Is Yours To Keep. You're NOT Working For A Parent Company.

I can tell you I've already seen letters coming in from people throughout the country thanking him for what he has done for them.

Believe Me, It Really Works!

A New York businessman, that I know, uses a similar program to make $3,500 a week.

Another man, from Los Angeles, California started with the same program as I did. Recently he told me over the phone his income was over $5,000 a week.

A man in Michigan told me he was currently running a $14,000 Dollar-A-Month operation out of his home, consisting of two desks, two typewriters, four filing cabinets and one telephone.

Here's What The New Method Will Do For You!

It's titled, "How To Get By On $10,000 Dollars A Day", and it is written in a Step-By-Step Program to make it easy to read and easy to follow. The Money-Making Method consists of a two-color glossy covered 155 page book, with 31 illustrations and 55 almost Secret Names, Addresses and Telephone numbers that are used in putting your Money-Making Method into operation. This New Money-Making Method will teach you more than how to start earning up to $15,000 in 30 days. It will show you a powerfully written plan on how to build a solid life time income of your own.

A New Venture That Does NOT Require A Large Investment.

If you think you don't make enough money to start this New Venture let me cover these important facts. To put this plan into operation you won't need to risk your entire life savings.

You will NOT have to work long hours. Most people after completing the first part of the project, only spend a few hours a day filling out the forms and making a few telephone calls.

NO Selling! IT'S NOT complicated.

This Money-Making Method does not require good economic times. In fact, the harder the times the better the plan works.

This Plan is Very Unique, you don't need a formal college education or any special business training. And the best part is you DON'T have to leave your present job, business or location to start it. It can be started right from your own HOME.

Order The Plan NOW!

You've got nothing to lose and everything to gain. There is NO RISK on your part, because I will not cash your $10 check for 30 days AFTER I have mailed the materials to you.

That's Guaranteed In Writing!

To prove to you again that I am sincere in my offer that this plan will work for you, here is a Very Special Proposal:

I know that only a few people reading this advertisement are ready to accept its challenge and make an investment in themselves. Thousands of men and women will say, "I wish I could....I would like to." One excuse after another! If you are one of the few who will say: "I'll bet I can make hundreds, maybe, thousands of dollars with this New Money-Making Method!" Then I would like to offer you the following Money-Back Guarantee.

This New Money-Making Method, titled "How To Get By On $10,000 Dollars A Day", MUST show you how to earn up to $15,000 dollars in 30 days OR at any time One Month or One Year from now. If it fails to do so, simply Return It for a complete refund! No Questions Asked!

I Guarantee It!

Earn up to $15,000 with this New Method, in 30 Days, Before You Pay Me One Cent!

I invite you to place your order this way: POSTDATE YOUR $10 CHECK FOR 30 DAYS FROM NOW. That will give you plenty of time to receive the materials, look over the method and find out that it really works.

I won't cash your check or money-order for thirty days AFTER I have sent you the Money-Making Method. Guaranteed! Use the information and put the step-by-step method into action for that period, and if you are not satisfied just mail the materials back and I will return your check UNCASHED.

SMASH HIT: Kid McCoy battled his way to the top, winning the welterweight championship of the world in 1896.

The specter of murder and intrigue rears its ugly head in high society from time to time. Here, in this last exclusive ENQUIRER installment from his new book, "Murder Among the Mighty," author Jay Robert Nash recounts the violent life of boxing champ Kid McCoy — who inspired the catch phrase, "The Real McCoy."

By JAY ROBERT NASH

He was a lover and a brawler, a smooth-talking Broadway type who liked the lime-light and show business — and he was "the real McCoy."

Kid McCoy won most of his 150 bouts and battled to the welterweight championship of the world in 1896.

McCoy kept his welterweight crown for two years, abandoning the title to open a cabaret in New York where he catered to the stars of the theater, befriending countless celebrities, from lovely Lillian Russell to Nora Bayes.

The handsome McCoy was absolutely wild about marrying any woman who caught his eye, going to the altar nine times.

His many divorces depleted the vast amounts of money he had accumulated through boxing and his cabaret, but McCoy did not seem to mind. He was a lover first and a money-maker second.

McCoy's most implausible money fight occurred in South Africa before the turn of the century. British colonials offered him $10,000 to travel to a trading post hundreds of miles north of Johannesburg to fight someone the natives called the King of the Kaffirs.

Upon his arrival, McCoy was suddenly thunderstruck by an awesome sight. Before him was the King, working out with a so-called sparring partner. McCoy's intended opponent stood more than 8 feet 6 in his bare feet and weighed almost 300 pounds. The man "sparring" with the King was almost as big — and they were using clubs on each other instead of fists because, a British colonial explained to McCoy, "They don't seem to be able to hurt each other with their fists, old boy."

McCoy retired to a hut to think over his dilemma. The barefoot King outweighed him by 140 pounds. Then there was the club. But McCoy had a plan.

Going immediately to the trading post, McCoy purchased a large box of tacks and gave the package to his second, telling him: "Stay next to that bozo's corner tomorrow. When I signal, you throw them tacks out in front of his bare feet."

The following day McCoy got into the ring and was handed a club. The bell rang and the King of the Kaffirs stood up with a roar. McCoy immediately signaled and his second threw out the tacks in front of the King.

After a few steps, the King let out a howl of pain and grabbed one foot. McCoy, tossing aside his club, raced forward and hit the King with his finest corkscrew punch, sending the giant to the canvas unconscious.

Without waiting for the referee to announce him the winner, Kid McCoy ran out to a waiting stagecoach which raced from the trad-

The Real McCoy — He Was a Boxing Champ, a Ladies' Man ... And a Killer

McCoy had relocated to Los Angeles where his show business friends got him bit parts in movies. He took a job as a guard in a plant.

Theresa Mors, wife of wealthy art and antique dealer Albert E. Mors, soon moved in with McCoy as his common-law wife.

Whether or not wealthy Mrs. Mors had planned to marry the ex-champ after her divorce was in debate until the night of Aug. 12-13, 1924, when Mrs. Mors was slain.

The dark-eyed, plumpish Theresa and McCoy began to drink heavily late that night in their apartment.

McCoy was after her money, District Attorney Asa Keyes would later insist, and when he learned she was leaving him, approached Mrs. Mors when she was drunk and placed his .32-caliber pistol behind her left ear around midnight, August 12-13, and blew out her brains.

Intoxicated, the fighter staggered into another room, brought forth a picture of himself which Theresa liked and placed this on her bosom, then covered the body with a sheet on the dining room floor.

He left the pistol next to her body, then went out, going to his car and driving about aimlessly for some minutes. He drove to the Hollywood police station and asked for an officer who was not there. McCoy left.

That morning, the fighter went to Mrs. Mors' art-antique store, robbed two cus-ing post just ahead of a howling mob of incensed natives.

By 1924 McCoy's salad days were over. At age 51, he was no longer the dandy, now gone bald and flabby.

tomers and the clerk and shot one of the patrons in the leg. He shot two more people outside the store, fled in a stolen car, but was apprehended by police.

McCoy told police that he killed his lover because she was going to leave him. But then McCoy changed his story, claiming Theresa committed suicide. Before the trial, he feigned insanity by acting like a monkey.

McCoy was convicted of manslaughter and spent eight years in San Quentin.

In late 1931, Henry Ford Sr. wrote to the governor of California stating that if Kid McCoy were paroled, he, Ford, would guarantee him a job training his employees in the ways of physical fitness.

McCoy was freed in 1932 going to work for Ford in Detroit. But he became depressed when no one could ever recall his fame in the ring, let alone the fact that he was truly "the real McCoy."

Returning to his Detroit hotel room in April 1940, Kid McCoy swallowed a bottle of sleeping pills, committing suicide at age 66.

Loafing has gotten a bad name but it can actually be good for you, says psychologist Dr. Herbert Hoffman.

"Loafing reduces stress and it stimulates the type of day-dreaming that often triggers creative and positive thinking, which can enrich our lives," Dr. Hoffman said.

Here's a quiz designed by Dr. Hoffman that will tell you whether you're loafing enough.

Simply answer each question, then check the scoring and analysis that follow.

1. If you call in sick when you just don't feel like working, can you stay home without feeling guilty? (a) Yes (b) No.

Test Yourself

Are You Loafing Enough?

2. Do you feel uneasy on Friday if you have nothing planned for the weekend? (a) Yes (b) No.

3. Have you disciplined yourself to do two or more things at once such as read, iron or knit while you watch TV? (a) Yes (b) No.

4. In your view, are most of the people you know (a) more ambitious or (b) lazier than you?

5. Do you ever prolong your shower or bath purely for the pleasure of it? (a) Yes (b) No.

6. When friends drop by unexpectedly, do you (a) resent or (b) welcome the interruption of your routine activities?

7. Do you ever "escape" to a favorite hideaway, keeping your whereabouts a complete secret? (a) Yes (b) No.

8. Do you use at least one of the following: a rocking chair, hammock, porch swing or reclining lounge? (a) Yes (b) No.

9. Have you ever felt good about being snowed in during a blizzard? (a) Yes (b) No.

10. Are there days when you find yourself making silly mistakes, like being clumsy or dropping things? (a) Yes (b) No.

11. Can you enjoy a favorite TV program even if the dinner dishes are still unwashed, or you have an unfinished letter to write, or you have a load of dirty clothes to launder? (a) Yes (b) No.

12. When you're not in the mood to talk to anyone, can you let the phone ring without answering it? (a) Yes (b) No.

SCORING: Give yourself 1 point for each (a) answer on questions 2, 3 and 6, and for each (b) answer on the remaining questions.

ANALYSIS:

0 to 4 points. Congratulate yourself on being able to step aside and let the world roll by from time to time.

Being able to loaf allows you to totally relax and helps you unwind when you need to the most.

5 to 8 points. You are vaguely uncomfortable with the idea of loafing. Your inner "judge" accuses you of being lazy anytime you sit around doing nothing.

You need to give yourself permission to loaf more — and keep in mind that loafing is a great way to relax.

9 to 12 points. You definitely need to loaf more. Pick a favorite place to sneak away from time to time — your own backyard, a park or a quiet corner table at your neighborhood cafe.

Allow yourself time off from your responsibilities to read, listen to music, nap, meditate, daydream — or to do nothing at all.

"Tell yourself that loafing is the most efficient way to regenerate and rejuvenate your mind, body and spirit," Dr. Hoffman said.

Going Overboard

Mrs. Carper did nothing but gripe during her entire Caribbean cruise — so much so that the captain tried to avoid her whenever she came to the bridge.

At the end of the cruise, the captain spotted her on deck and strolled over.

Tipping his cap, he said pleasantly:

"Your worries are over now, Mrs. Carper. We have just dropped the anchor."

She gave him an arch look. "Humph!" she said. "It's about time. It's been hanging over the side for days."

8 Ways to Stretch Your Buying Power

Today's economy is rough on the consumer but it's also tough on the seller — and that's good for you if you know how to buy wisely.

To stretch your dollars, simply follow a few commonsense tips, says Jim Morgan, editor of Purchasing magazine. Here are his suggestions:

1. Buy items already in stock. "Your best buy is something that is already in the store, whether it's the avocado refrigerator or the demonstrator car," says Morgan. "It costs the store owner a lot to hold onto a large inventory, so he is more likely to give you a good deal."

2. Watch for sales. Check newspapers carefully. Retailers are fighting each other for customers — and their best lure is a sale.

3. Negotiate a better warranty.

"Small retailers are usually more flexible than big department stores and may be willing to extend the warranty on a product." You may be able to get an extra year of warranty service — which will save you money in the long run.

4. Try to hold down interest charges. Often you can persuade the salesman to sell you his product interest-free the first month. "It saves money," Morgan said.

5. Shop around. "This is a point I can't stress enough," Morgan said. "It's worth the cost in both time and transportation to shop around."

6. Watch out for hidden costs. "For example, some stores will charge you for delivery," Morgan explained. "But you'd be surprised how often you can negotiate the price of delivery right off the bill."

"If the sale has been made, the retailer doesn't want to haggle over delivery," he added.

7. Learn to "nibble" things out of a salesman. For example, when buying a car, tell him, "I'll take it if you throw in a radio, automatic antenna and better tires." He'll taste the chance for a sale, and you'll end up with some free extras.

8. Don't take unnecessary options. "A lot of people take options they don't need. If you don't need an automatic ice-maker on a refrigerator, why have it? Buy the cheaper model that doesn't have one."

— STEVE COZ

These Fords Really Purr

Steven Ford — son of former President Gerald Ford — has a new first family: these two adorable kittens. Handsome Steve, 26, who plays Andy on the TV soap, "The Young and the Restless," found them starving and near death on a roadside near his California home. He nursed them back to health using a medicine dropper — and now the two furry felines are in purr-fect condition.

Speaking of Languages . . .

German nearly became the official language of the United States . . . China's one billion people share about 100 family names . . . the American word "jeans" is the French name for an Italian city . . .

These are a few of the fascinating facts about language collected by expert linguist Charles Berlitz — grandson of the founder of the famed Berlitz schools — in his new book, "Native Tongues."

There are at least 2,796 languages being spoken on this planet, according to scholars.

And there may be even more undiscovered tongues spoken in remote jungles. But only 101 have more than one million speakers.

The 14 most widely spoken languages — in approximate order — are:

Chinese, English, Hindi, Russian, Spanish, Japanese, German, Indonesian, Portuguese, French, Arabic, Bengali, Malay and Italian.

The English language has over one million words — and about 100,000 of them are considered slang. The Sunday edition of The New York Times uses about 25,000 different words and ably the world's most difficult language to learn because it's related to no other.

A single word in Chinese may have dozens of different meanings, depending on the tone the speaker uses and the context of the sentence.

Among the one billion Chinese in the world, there are only about 100 family names.

The American word for the popular pants known as "jeans" is based on the French name for the Italian city of Genoa — Genes. A type of material from Genes was later Americanized to "jeans."

American Indian names for places have some wacky meanings. Manhattan means "The Place Where We All Got Drunk." Chicago is "The Place of Skunk Cabbage."

By PAUL F. LEVY

Shakespeare used approximately 19,000 in his various works. The Bible includes about 6,000 different words.

German nearly became our nation's official language after the American colonies severed ties with England.

The Continental Congress met to vote on the issue, and German had the inside track because of the many German and Dutch settlers living in New York and Pennsylvania. English won out by a single vote.

The Heartbreak of Princess Di — Haunted by Steamy Divorce Scandal

Princess Diana's defying the Queen and raising little Prince William her own way — breast-feeding him and even changing his diapers — because she doesn't want her baby to experience the heartbreak she suffered as a child.

When Diana was just 8 years old, her nobleman father divorced her mother on the grounds of adultery with a married man — a steamy scandal that shook up London society.

Diana's father won custody of her, her brother and two sisters — so the future Princess suffered the heartbreak and loneliness of growing up without a mother in a broken home.

The scandal surfaced once again a few weeks ago when Diana's mother, Mrs. Frances Shand Kydd, angrily denied reports in several books that she'd abandoned her children.

The divorce and the lonely heartache of her childhood years shaped Diana's fierce determination to raise William her way.

Said a source close to the royal family: "Diana was devastated when her parents split because she felt she was denied the loving, tender care of a happy home. She was only 6 when her mother left her father, but I know she remembers those traumatic days. She's determined that Prince William will never suffer the same heartache and pain she did Diana has a special motherly bond with William. That's why she's defying the Queen by breast-feeding him and changing his diapers herself — things she believes a loving mother should do.

The divorce that snatched the comfort of a mother's loving, tender care away from Diana occurred in 1969.

Sources say Diana's mother left her husband, then became involved with a married man — Peter Shand Kydd. He was later divorced by his wife, who charged in her suit that Diana's mother had committed adultery with her husband. Then Diana's dad, Earl Spencer, divorced her mother on grounds of adultery with Shand Kydd. Said a palace observer: "It was an uncontested action. Very little came out in the press at the time. It has been very hush-hush."

Added a palace insider: "It was a terrible scandal among the noble classes. They looked down on Diana's mother for having an affair."

"Although Diana's mother later married Shand Kydd, it was such a scandal that her own mother, Ruth, a lady-in-waiting to the Queen Mother, sided with Earl Spencer in the custody case. She thought it was better that the children stay with their father."

Diana's determined to defy the old-fashioned Queen, who wants William brought up as royal children have always been raised — with a strict nanny substituting for the mother. Said the source: "Diana has sent for a nanny — but only to help out, because Diana is tending the baby's every need."

Diana even defied the Queen by breaking a "golden rule" of the royal family — that two immediate successors to the throne must never fly together.

Said a palace insider: "Diana broke the rule because of her love for William and her desire to remain close to him."

"Just before a recent holiday trip to Scotland, Prince Charles told his wife that he and Prince William couldn't fly on the same plane in case there was a disaster. But Diana pestered Charles until he got the Queen to give permission for the family to fly together. The palace staff was shocked, but Diana did not care."

"She's decided that it's a risk they will have to take because she wants everything to be a family atmosphere."

Frado the dolphin and fellow artist Deonne Stephens, 6, dab at their poolside canvases side by side. Like all other dolphins, Frado can only stay on land for a short time before he begins to "dry out" and overheat. The two artists were part of a show at the Atlantis Marine Park in Yanchep, Western Australia. Their masterpieces will be auctioned off for charity.

Sophia — California, Here She Comes

Stunning Sophia Loren is moving to California where she hopes to make a movie and star in a TV series, close sources reveal — and she's even considering becoming an American citizen!

The 47-year-old actress is looking for a house in the Los Angeles area where she can live with her lover, French cancer expert Dr. Etienne Emile Baulieu, say insiders.

"She recently flew to America to find a home in California," confided a source close to the actress.

"She wants to be a major American TV star and an American citizen."

Disillusioned with estranged husband Carlo Ponti's power over her and desperate for financial independence, Sophia wants to become a big TV star like "Dynasty's" Joan Collins, sources reveal.

"She was originally offered the Joan Collins part but turned it down," said an insider.

And Sophia has film projects lined up too, sources say.

"Sophia has mentioned to me that she was offered a film role with Burt Reynolds," said a confidante. "She has also been talking about making a television movie, 'The Rose Tattoo.'"

Ponti, who's dying of cancer, is also looking at property in the Los Angeles area. "But they won't be living together. They have barely spoken to each other for over a year. Ponti wants to spend his remaining life near Alex, his son by a previous marriage, who is living in Los Angeles.

"Sophia wants a home where her French lover can spend his free time with her and her children," the source said. "They are still crazy in love with one another. He has promised to join her in America as soon as he can.

"Sophia said, 'I have told him that yes, I will let him come to America and be with me if things go well in my new American life.'

"He is going to leave his wife and move to America and become a doctor there. As a leading French specialist in cancer, this would be no problem for him to arrange," said the source. "Eventually the couple hopes to live together permanently — preferably as man and wife.

"It is only a matter of time before Sophia will be free of Ponti."

In May, Sophia spent 17 days in an Italian jail for tax evasion. One reason she went to jail was so she could work on a film in Rome without more tax difficulties. But then on July 9, when she was about to start work, the movie production company — owned by Ponti's son Alex — decided to scrap the film.

"Sophia believes that Ponti could have used his influence to persuade his son to go on with the picture.

"But instead Ponti used it to have the movie shut down," said the insider.

"Now Sophia is angry and frustrated with the Italian government and Ponti.

"She has decided to quit Europe — where Carlo has such tremendous power and influence in the film business — and move to America."

Reader's Psychic Experience

My Grandpa's Ghost Came to Say Goodbye

Have you ever had a psychic experience? Then why not share it with ENQUIRER readers? If your story is published, we'll pay you $100. That's how much Sheila Rose of Rich Creek, Va., received for telling the eerie story below. Just describe your experience in a brief letter, and be sure to include your name, address and phone number when you send it to: Psychic Editor, NATIONAL ENQUIRER, Lantana, Fla. 33464.

By SHEILA ROSE

The tall, mysterious intruder stood beside the bed. Suddenly, he reached down and touched my grandmother's shoulder.

It was the ghost of my grandfather who had been sick in the hospital. I realized at that horrible moment he was dead!

I buried my face in the pillow and screamed my heart out.

I was 12 years old then and I was staying overnight with my grandmother. My grandfather was a retired miner. He'd been hospitalized with emphysema that weekend in April 1970, and I was helping my grandmother with her housecleaning.

We were both exhausted by the time we went to the guest room to share the same bed. Grandmother went to sleep at once, but I tossed and turned.

In the middle of the night, I heard someone walking around. I was petrified.

"It must be a burglar," I said to myself. "Oh, God, let them take what they want, but please don't let them hurt me or grandmother," I prayed.

I got more and more frightened as I heard the sound of drawers opening and closing. My heart felt as if it would burst.

Then I heard the footsteps come toward our open door.

I peeked up to see the man come near the bed and touch my grandmother's shoulder.

Mom's Lament

Camping's fun, the outdoor life relaxes those who lead it; But why send off the carefree kid when Mom's the one who needs it?

— David Bissonette

HORRIBLE MOMENT: Sheila Rose saw mysterious intruder touch her grandmother's shoulder... and realized it was her grandfather's spirit.

That's when I saw it was my grandfather.

I screamed and woke up grandmother. "Grandma, I just saw grandpa. And he's dead," I said.

Grandmother turned on the light. No one was there. She told me that I'd had a nightmare.

A few minutes later, a car squealed into the driveway and grandmother went to answer the door. A chill shot through me. I knew the person at the door would tell us that my grandfather was dead — and I was right.

I learned later that grandfather had died about the same time I saw him in grandmother's house. Some people may think I'm crazy, but I think he came back to say goodbye to grandmother.

My Feet Were Killing Me... Until I Discovered the Miracle in Germany!

It was the European trip I had always dreamed about. I had the time and money to go where I wanted — see what I wanted. But I soon learned that money and time don't mean much when your feet hurt too much to walk. After a few days of sightseeing my feet were killing me.

Oh, I tried to keep going. In Paris I limped through Notre Dame and along the Champs-Élysées. And I went up in the Eiffel Tower although I can't honestly say I remember the view. My feet were so tired and sore my whole body ached. While everybody else was having a great time, I was in my hotel room. I didn't even feel like sitting in a sidewalk cafe.

The whole trip was like that until I got to Hamburg, Germany. There, by accident, I happened to hear about an exciting breakthrough for anyone who suffers from sore, aching feet and legs.

This wonderful invention was a custom formed foot support called Flexible Featherspring? When I got a pair and slipped them into my shoes my pain disappeared almost instantly. The flexible shock absorbing sup-

WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE MIRACLE:

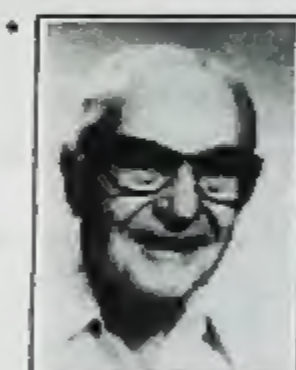

Received my wife's Feathersprings two days ago. They are super—neither of us can believe the results. She has had terrible feet for years; already no pain. Incidentally, her sore knee is much better... As a retired physician, this result is amazing.

Dr.-C.O.C./Tucson, Arizona

After wearing Feathersprings for 3 months. I would never want to be without them. It's so wonderful to walk without every step hurting. They have helped my corns, ingrown toe nails, and my legs and back are so much better.

Mrs. C.F.E., Sarasota, Fla.

"Since I've been wearing Feathersprings I have been able to wear shoes I wasn't able to wear before. Mainly because of my corns and calluses. Thanks a hundred times over."

A.H./East Orange, New Jersey

"My husband felt a great relief and no more pain. They are truly an answer to our prayers. Only wish that he had heard of them twenty years ago."

Mrs. F.J.S./Metairie, Louisiana

"At the present time I still wear the Feathersprings and indeed they perform well after seven years of use."

G.M.G./Dallas, Texas

"Wish I had believed your ad five years ago."

Deadly Poison Straightens Cross-Eyes — And It's Safe

An amazing new treatment that uses one of the world's deadliest poisons has been successful in straightening out cross-eyes — and can eliminate the need for surgery in half the cases.

About 60,000 operations are done annually to correct cross-eyes, known medically as strabismus. But this remarkable new procedure, which can eliminate about 30,000 of those operations, takes only 5 to 10 minutes. The technique involves injecting the eye muscles that pull the eye out of line with a toxin that causes botulism poisoning. The toxin deadens the muscles' nerve endings, weakening their pull on the eye.

While the muscles are recovering, which usually takes a few weeks, the unaffected muscles pull the eye toward a normal position.

"This procedure can eliminate surgery in almost 50 percent of all strabismus cases," said Dr. Alan B. Scott, associate director of the Smith-Kettlewell Institute of Visual Sciences in San Francisco, Calif., who developed the procedure.

"And better than 70 percent of the people treated for horizontal strabismus, the most common form of cross-eyes, have improved to the extent that surgery is no longer necessary."

The National Eye Institute has monitored Dr. Scott's four-year study of 91 patients with strabismus.

"There have been no side effects," said Dr. Janet Cardenas, Ph.D., program director for the institute's ocular motor disorders and strabismus program. "Of the 91 patients treated, there has been significant improvement in almost all cases of horizontal strabismus in the follow-up period."

The procedure is available at the Smith-Kettlewell Institute and through specially trained eye doctors throughout the country, Dr. Scott said. People interested in the procedure should contact their eye doctor.

Whatever Happened to The Cast of 'Maude'?

Edith Bunker's loudmouth cousin "Maude" spouted her opinions on TV for six years — and today, four years after the series ended, nearly every cast member is going strong in show biz.

One costar went on to headline his own series, another became a pin-up sensation and big-screen star, and others moved into stage careers.

Beatrice Arthur called her experience as Maude Findlay "the six happiest years of my life."

"It gave me the opportunity to do everything — high comedy, low farce and drama."

"I'm just very, very proud I did it," she said.

After the show went off the air in the spring of 1978, she appeared in several TV specials and won rave reviews for her Broadway performance in the Woody Allen play "The Floating Light Bulb."

Currently, she's discussing appearing in another TV series.

Bill Macy, who played Maude's husband Walter, has appeared in both TV and feature films, which include "The Jerk" and "The Day the Bubble Burst."

Will You Give a Brother and Sister the Love They Need?

More than 100,000 special children in America have never felt the love, warmth and security of a permanent family. Their parents gave them up for adoption. But they haven't been adopted. And it's all because they are very special. They're children with mental, physical or emotional problems and all have one trait in common: They are still waiting for a family to call their very own. Here is another touching story of two special children who need a home and family full of love.

By BELINDA HARE

Life's been rough on 10-year-old Renee and her brother John, 6. They've been shuffled from place to place so often that now they doubt they'll ever have a permanent home and family.

"I don't think you can find us a family!" says Renee. "I don't think we'll ever have one!"

Abuse and neglect have left emotional scars on both youngsters, and they will need psychological help to overcome them, says their caseworker, Lois, who's trying to find them a home together.

"Their mother is dead and they've been shifted back and forth between family members and friends until they came into emergency foster care this year."

Renee, a pretty little girl, is extremely bright and headed for fifth grade this fall. "But Renee is 10 going on 40," said Lois.

"She's never had much of a chance to be a little girl."

"She's had to protect and care for her little brother ever since he was born."

"She's like a little old lady."

And John clings to Renee as the only permanent person he has ever had in his life, Lois said.

"If you try to put him to sleep at night without her, he screams, 'I can't go to bed without Renee!'"

John is a stubborn, strongheaded little boy who can be very demanding, Lois said. "He has temper tantrums. He's not tidy. He has to be pushed into taking care of himself and his toys. But if you're firm and put your foot down, he will respond."

While Renee can be standoffish until she gets to know and trust someone, John is just the opposite.

"He's very affectionate. John will crawl up on your lap and give you a hug," said Lois.

"The family that adopts these children must recognize that Renee is a very bright little girl who's been deprived not only emotionally but also of guidance and loving support. She needs someone who will see her not as a young old lady, but a little girl who needs guidance and emotional support."

"These children both have a great deal of potential. They have a great deal to offer the right family."

"In the right home, in their own loving, permanent home, there's no doubt they will blossom and become the best they can be."

WEDDING PHOTO of Soren and Thora Ingvarsen was taken in 1913.

Happily Married for 69 Years

And Here's How They Did It

"You really have to work at marriage, but it's worth it. I can tell you that after 69 years of it!" says 101-year-old Thora Ingvarsen.

Thora and her devoted hubby Soren are both 101 — but their undying love seems to keep them eternally spry.

And Soren says his marathon marriage has lasted largely because he and Thora have learned to be patient with one another.

"You'll stay married, and live to be happily married old folks like us, if you just count to 10 and exercise a little patience with your mate," he said.

"Today, people have a silly little argument and they run to the divorce court. People get divorced right and left. It's terrible!"

Thora and Soren were born within four days of each other in July 1881 — five years after Custer's Last Stand — in Denmark. They were married in 1913 and moved to Canada in 1927.

Today they live with their daughter in Winnipeg, but until they were 93 they lived in a farmhouse with no running water or plumbing.

"That didn't bother us," said Soren. "We drew our water from a well. It was a real basic living. We didn't have luxuries — but you don't need riches to be happy."

"You've got to put negative thoughts out of your mind. Thora and I never exchange a cross word. The older you get, the fewer arguments you have. There's just nothing left worth arguing over!"

Cheerful Thora added, "A sense of humor is important, too. I'm always looking for jokes to tell. In my 101 years I've found there's almost no problem that can't be overcome with laughter."

"The problems I had while rearing my children were over things like taking care of the horses or cutting hay — not over drugs and alcohol, like among today's young people."

"Times were simpler then, but even today I think common sense provides the best approach to solving problems. And you must have patience, above all."

"But we didn't take any sauce from our two children, like you get from kids today. If my children didn't behave they got a smack! Parents today are too afraid of that."

Said Soren: "Everybody's life is full of good and bad experiences. You cannot change that. The key to happiness is not letting the bad stuff get you down and believing a good experience is just around the corner."

Scientists will soon be able to create humans less than half their present size to solve the world's overpopulation problem, experts say.

Smaller people will mean more space for everyone, more food and more water, researchers explain.

"This may sound like a bizarre idea, but it's a possible, serious solution to the world's overcrowding problem in the next century," said Anthony Wiener, former head of research at the Hudson Institute and professor of management at the Polytechnic Institute of New York.

Scientists already have the basic technology that will eventually allow them to determine a person's size through genetic engineering — control of the characteristics people are born with.

Dr. Thomas Easton, Ph.D., a theoretical biologist who teaches at the University of Maine, said:

"In 10 years, genetic engineering will make it possible to produce an average male two to three feet tall and an average female just a few inches shorter."

Wiener added: "Genetic engineers should be able to change almost any genetic aspect of our bodies. They've already used bacteria to manufacture the hormone that tells our bodies to grow. In fact, these hormones have helped children with growth problems to reach a normal size after taking these hormones."

"Eventually, genetic engineers will be able to use these techniques to make people smaller."

Smaller size means that more people will be able to fit into cars and planes — and more people will be able to live in today's housing.

"You'd be able to convert ordinary Cadillacs into buses or Lear jets into jumbo jets. You could split floors in a house — or even an office building — crosswise so you'd fit twice as many people," said Easton.

"A personal car would be the size of your child's little red wagon. Ordinary two-lane roads could become superhighways," he said.

"You'd have just as many people on Earth. But in terms of space, water and food, you'd have fewer people because everyone would be smaller and have smaller appetites."

Humans would also be stronger and less prone to some diseases, Easton added.

"A person's muscles would shrink only one-third as much as their total body weight, so people would be much stronger and more agile. We'd be able to run and jump like cats or chimpanzees," he said.

"Many diseases would disappear. Some types of arthritis wouldn't be a problem because at that height and weight the joints would suffer much less stress.

"The risk of heart disease would also be reduced because the heart would no longer have to work as hard to pump blood in such a small body."
